Senate Adds Billion To Defense Budget

$40.5 Billion Voted; Khrush Insults Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate added $1,179,000,000 to the defense budget Thursday night after being told Nikita S. Khrushchev would not have dared insult President Eisenhower if he had more respect for U.S. military power.

It approved a $40,514,897,000 defense spending bill for fiscal 1961 that would provide extra funds for the B-70 bomber program, Army modernization, "spy-in-the-sky" satellites and a bigger Marine Corps.

The roll call vote was 85-0.

The Senate endorsed the increases, most of them recommended by its appropriations committee, after Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) cited the insults heaped on Eisenhower by Khrushchev since the summit collapse.

Bill Now Goes To Conference

"I cannot help but feel that Mr. Khrushchev would not have felt so free to abuse and humiliate our President if he had had more respect for our future military strength," Johnson told the Senate.

As approved, the bill was $1,179,000,000 larger than the President's original request and $1,177,000,000 larger than the measure approved by the House earlier this year. A House-Senate conference committee now must work out the final total.

Senate Democrats urged the administration not to "freeze" the additional money but to spend it for authorized programs. However, several defense officials said they doubted the funds would be used by the Eisenhower administration in its final six months.

Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. took a noncommittal attitude toward the Senate action. He said the administration would have to "wait and see" what Congress finally does.

$285 Million For B-70s

Gates made the statement at the Quantico, Va., Marine Base where he is attending the annual three-day conference at which the defense chiefs study the nation's military posture.

The Senate additions to the bill were tacked on following the U2 plane episode and the summit collapse. The House acted on the measure before those incidents and the Communist abuse of Eisenhower cited by Johnson.

Major additions in the Senate bill include 285 million dollars to restore the B-70 bomber program to full weapons development — a step not approved by the House or by the President's budget.

The Senate bill also would provide 83 million dollars to speed the Samos "spy in the sky" satellite, 50 million dollars more than the House provided.

It would fully finance eight additional nuclear-powered submarines — five of the Polaris missile-firing type and three anti-sub attack submarines.

It also would provide initial advance funds for seven more Polaris submarines.

Two American Attaches Told To Leave Cuba

HAVANA (UPI)—The Cuban government Thursday accused two U.S. Embassy attaches of flagrant interference in internal affairs, declared them persona non grata and asked that they leave the country within 24 hours.

The Cuban charges were listed in a State Department note to U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal. The note was delivered two hours after the ambassador had protested the "unwarranted" arrests of legal attaches Edwin L. Sweet, of Abilene, Tex., and William G. Friedemann, of Stillwater, Okla.

Sweet and Friedmann were arrested by intelligence agents in a raid on a private home in suburban Miramar where they were visiting Cuban friends. The note accused them of "activities which seriously affect the national sovereignty."

Their presence in Cuba "is no longer considered desirable," the note said.

The official announcement came hours after government propaganda outlets said the two men were arrested for conspiring with counter-revolutionaries. Both men were held for several hours in army intelligence headquarters before being delivered to the embassy.

The embassy said that Friedemann was searched forcibly by the intelligence men after he refused a request to undress. Sweet also refused demands he strip but he was not forced to submit to a search. Both men are husky six-footers with plenty of muscle.

Demos Deplore Prestige Loss In Trip Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relief that President Eisenhower will be spared the threat of physical danger was tempered Thursday by what some political leaders viewed as a loss of U.S. prestige in the cancellation of his trip to Japan.

Democrats stressed the diplomatic setback angle, while Republicans sought solace in the fact that Eisenhower will not have to run a possible gantlet of angry mobs in Tokyo.

No one, Republican or Democrat, questioned the wisdom of the decision.

Both the Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate accused the Communists of fomenting hostile demonstrations in Japan.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, called the Tokyo rioting "pure blackmail in its most outrageous sense." GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois denounced it as "a flaming example of what Communist ruthlessness and brutality can really do to subvert a people."

"Their next step," Dirksen predicted in a Senate speech, "will be aimed to compel the expulsion of American troops from Japan."

Johnson told the Senate that while the decision to call off the trip was wise in the circumstances he felt the necessity for doing so was "a matter of great embarrassment." He said there had been "substantial reservations about the wisdom of this trip from the beginning."

"It is evident that this is a time to re-examine our policies and to determine whether they are effective in penetrating the walls which the Communists seek to build between men," he added.

Communists will consider it a victory, Johnson said, "that the Japanese government was unwilling to risk the security of the President."

Bloody Tibet Fighting Rages

NEW DELHI (UPI) — At least 400 persons have been killed and as many injured in fierce guerrilla fighting between armed Tibetan rebels and Communist Chinese in Western Tibet, it was reported Thursday.

The report, relayed to the Dalai Lama who is in exile in India, were considered here to be authoritative.

They said that six guerrilla engagements in which "at least" 400 persons were killed had taken place 100 miles northeast of Manasarowar Lake, a Hindu pilgrimage shrine in western Tibet, since March.

The reports of fierce fighting in the western part of the Himalayan nation came Wednesday also from Katmandu, in neighboring, Nepal. Tibetan rebels, who reached Nepal's border checkpoints, indicated that the Tibetan rebellion was reaching its peak.

They said that both the rebels and Communist Chinese were suffering heavy casualties and that truckloads of wounded had been removed to hospitals in Sigatse and Llasa.

Eisenhower's Hawaii Arrival Indefinite

HONOLULU (AP)—The governor's office announced Thursday that President Eisenhower would arrive Sunday in Hawaii but an hour later a spokesman said, "The message may have been in error."

"The President's arrival is indefinite at this point," the spokesman added.

To that Hugh Lytle, press secretary to Gov. William F. Quinn, added: "We don't know whether the President is coming in Sunday or not. We don't know where the message came from."

Earlier, in announcing that Eisenhower would arrive Sunday, instead of next Wednesday as previously scheduled, Lytle had said the word came in a radio message from the presidential party.

Kishi Calls Off Trip In Face Of Riots

Leftists Announce All-Out Campaign Against Premier

Although acknowledging Japan's inability to guarantee the President's safety, Kishi served notice he will not yield to the campaign of worldwide communism and of Japan's left-wing clamor to scrap the military alliance with America.

The embattled 64-year-old Kishi told newsmen he will not even consider opposition demands that he dissolve the Diet or resign until the final exchange of ratifications on the new U. S.-Japan security treaty, providing for American bases in Japan for at least another decade.

He said he will keep the Diet in session so that Japanese ratification automatically becomes final Sunday, with or without upper House action. The lower house ratified the treaty at a stormy May 20 session.

Rally Scheduled Saturday

The Red-tinged 3,500,000-member labor federation, Sohyo, announced it would muster up to 300,000 demonstrators at the Diet Saturday to step up pressure. Sohyo, whose membership includes 70 per cent of the country's government workers, also ordered more strikes and work stoppages June 22.

The opposition Socialists issued a statement declaring cancellation of the Eisenhower visit is "the will of the people" and "an expression of opposition to Kishi that makes his resignation the only course left to him."

Zengakuren, the fanatical Marxist student group which launched the most violent of Tokyo's left-wing demonstrations, threatened "unlimited strikes and daily demonstrations until Kishi and the U. S. security treaty are thrown out."

Kishi Pledges To Bring Order

Kishi pledged measures to smash the leftist turmoil and bring order to Tokyo.

"I swear to the people that there will come a time when we will be able to welcome President Eisenhower," he said.

Kishi told newsmen that "even if there is the slightest bit of doubt about the President's safety in Japan, it makes it inappropriate for him to visit at this time."

Eisenhower, in Manila, agreed.

The embarrassing, last-minute decision was made at an emergency Cabinet meeting even as thousands of demonstrators snake-danced in the rain near the Diet shouting "Down with Kishi!" "Crush the security treaty." They cheered the announcement that Eisenhower was not coming. Police kept hands off the demonstrators, who dispersed shortly before midnight but promised to be back.

The decision reportedly was prompted by a report from Police Chief Ken Ogura that Eisenhower's security could not be fully

Eisenhower Rests Aboard U.S. Cruiser

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP)—Under a near-wartime alert, President Eisenhower sailed toward Formosa Friday after an affectionate farewell from the Philippines.

In a light tropical rain, he said goodby Thursday night to "a friendly government and a friendly people."

He said nothing of the decision to cancel his trip to Japan, but he was clearly unhappy about it.

Wearied by the wild and happy Manila reception, he boarded a Navy launch just before midnight and rode out to the cruiser St. Paul, anchored in Manila Bay. The vessel, flagship of the 7th Fleet, is due at the Nationalist Chinese bastion of Formosa Saturday.

The fighter planes from the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga are flying constant air cover. The entire 7th Fleet is on alert against any moves by Communist China, which has made several military threats against Nationalist outposts near the mainland and poured out constant abuse of Eisenhower's Far Eastern visit.

Red Agitators Blamed

Although Eisenhower was personally silent on the riots in Tokyo that forced cancellation of his trip to Japan, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower blamed the violence on "a small, organized minority led by professional Communist agitators."

Even before the President left Washington, some advisers had counseled him to avoid Japan, but the President insisted on going. He hoped the trip would prove that democratic leaders—whether Japanese or American—would not bow to mob pressure.

U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II reported from Tokyo that Japanese leftists would not dare to attempt violence against Eisenhower, especially if he was accompanied by Emperor Hirohito on the way from the airport.

But security officials doubted this more and more as the rioting grew more violent in Tokyo.

Before leaving Manila, the President bound the United States closer to Philippine defense by pledging U.S. troops would come to the instant aid of that island nation in case of attack.

Philippine Leaders Gratified

This represented a diplomatic success capping his personal triumph in Manila. Philippine officials, who want U.S. defense pledges in black and white, were delighted. One said: "This makes our cups brim over."

Eisenhower spent the last afternoon hours of his 2½-day visit at a rally of more than 100,000 cheering Filipinos in Luneta Park.

His face ruddy after two days under the Manila sun, he appeared relaxed. He sat with President Carlos P. Garcia of the Philippines under an oval roof shading the sun.

The crowd laughed appreciately every time Eisenhower smiled or joked with Garcia. They cheered when he craned his neck to follow a high-flying jet.

In his speech, Eisenhower promised that the United States "shall never close the door to peaceful negotiations" with Communist nations.

But in a clear reference to the collapse of the Paris summit con-

United States Population Set At 179,500,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. population grew by a record 28 million-plus in the past decade to an April 1 total of 179,500,000.

The Census Bureau said the 18.5 per cent increase was the largest numerical gain in any 10-year span in American history even though it fell short of expectations.

California chalked up the biggest rise. Its population was 15,537,413, an increase of 4,951,190 or 46.77 per cent over 1950.

Its sunshine rival, Florida, grew fastest on a percentage basis, however. Its total of 4,893,098 was 76.56 per cent higher than the 1950 figure of 2,771,305.

West Virginia, plagued by chronic unemployment, suffered a 7.76 per cent decline to 1,847,082 to record the biggest reduction. The District of Columbia's total also fell slightly.

In releasing the figures, the Census Bureau said the national total may be revised upward when the 1960 head count is completed.

Today's total was based on a preliminary count in the 50 states and the nation's capital. This actually came to 177,733,190 but the Census Bureau estimated it higher on the basis of servicemen overseas, crews of U.S. military and merchant ships, and persons away from home who were counted too late.

A final national total will be announced in October where tabulations have been completed.

The latest Soviet census, completed Jan. 15, 1959, reported a U.S.S.R. population of 208,826,000, an increase of about 38,226,000 over Russia's last previous census in 1939.

Communist China, with an estimated population of 669,000,000 has the most people; India with 402,750,000 is next, Russia third and the United States fourth.

Md. Population Up 31.2 Per Cent To 3,072,999

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maryland gained 31.2 per cent in population during the past decade according to preliminary figures released Thursday.

The figures showed a 1960 population of 3,072,999, compared to 2,343,001 in 1950.

Delaware had an even greater percentage increase, jumping from 318,085 in 1950 to 443,158—a gain of 39.3 per cent.

Among other neighboring states, Pennsylvania showed a 6.9 per cent increase, from 10,498,012 to 11,217,708, while West Virginia had the largest percentage drop of any state, 7.8 per cent from 2,005,552 to 1,847,082.

The District of Columbia was down 6.9 per cent, from 802,178 to 746,958.

$1.25 Minimum Pay Bill Moves Ahead In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Labor Committee voted 19-9 Thursday to approve a compromise bill which would raise the $1-an-hour federal minimum wage gradually to $1.25 and extend coverage to an additional 3,900,000 workers.

The bill, similar in most respects to a measure being considered by the Senate Labor Committee, would mean pay raises for an estimated 3,300,000 workers.

The committee split generally along party lines. Two Republicans, Reps. Joe Holt (Calif.) and Stuyvesant Wainwright (N.Y.) joined 17 Democrats in voting for it. It was opposed by one Democrat, Rep. Phil M. Landrum (Ga.) and eight Republicans.

Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) sponsor of the measure, said he hoped the House Rules Committee would clear it next week for a House vote the following week.

Senators Imply Criticism Of U2 Case Handling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee said Thursday that U. S. intelligence activities are as important as armed strength but must be continuously reviewed and coordinated to weigh "gains against risks."

The subcommittee outlined its conclusions in a unanimous report which skirted specific mention of the U2 spy plane incident but dealt with many of the issues raised by the case.

The group is studying how basic national security policies are hammered out within the administration. It is one of two Senate panels which has studied the U2 incident, which was seized upon by Nikita S. Khrushchev to wreck the Paris summit meeting.

The report said there are seven "tested principles" of intelligence work and "recent events have not altered the need for adherence to these principles." Rather, it said, events have attested to their wisdom.

The subcommittee added that it will use these principles as guidelines in making recommendations for improving intelligence activities and security planning.

The principles listed included:

—"The free world needs intelligence activities to assure its survival. Intelligence is as important as armed strength. In this age of push-button weapons, intelligence is more than ever our first line of defense.

—"Intelligence operations are instruments of national policy. They must be subject to effective and continuing higher review and coordination. This includes a weighing of gains against risks.

—"The collection and evaluation of intelligence is a job for professionals. Intelligence organization should be tight, centralized, responsive, and to the greatest possible extent anonymous."

D.C. Vote Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Thursday night approved a proposed constitutional amendment that would give residents of the District of Columbia the right to vote for president and vice president.

Passage was by a voice vote.

Teacher Fights Dismissal For Too Much Homework

Miss Emeline Stearns, a history and geography teacher here for 19 years, said she may consult soon with officials of the National Education Association (NEA) in Washington.

"I feel there is more involved than just the question of whether I get my job back," Miss Stearns said.

"American education needs to be strengthened," she contended. "In dismissing me, the cause of education is weakened."

The Fredericksburg School Board this week reaffirmed its prior decision not to renew Miss Stearns' contract at James Monroe High School for 1960-61 although a delegation of her former students asked the board to reconsider.

The board, Miss Stearns contended, acted on the complaints of a small minority of parents with whom she was never confronted. She charged they wanted their children "to get high grades without studying."

The school board said in a statement that the decision was made "in the best interest of the public schools of Fredericksburg."

Ike Trip Cancellation Seen As Diplomatic Calamity

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington viewed as a diplomatic catastrophe the cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

The event—and the forces which brought it about—threaten the future of the U.S.-Japanese alliance.

At the moment, it's anybody's guess where Japan will stand in the cold war once the current upheaval is over.

Officially, authorities at the State Department and elsewhere in the administration are cautiously optimistic.

Privately, they vary between anxiety and disgust over the way the President's goodwill mission has been turned into hostility, bitterness and defeat. They blame blunders and bad handling on the Allied side and shrewd, ruthless exploitation by leaders of the Communist bloc.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the chieftains of Red China won a stunning victory in their cold war campaign to cut down U.S. prestige and destroy the system of alliances and foreign bases which constitute the free world's forward defenses against Soviet-Chinese Communist power.

Eisenhower was caught in a humiliating position for the second time in exactly one month. On May 16 at Paris, Khrushchev wrecked the Big Four summit conference over the U2 spy plane incident and began his campaign of invective against Eisenhower personally.

The two events are unquestionably related.

The summit brought a Khrushchev cancellation of Eisenhower's scheduled June visit to the Soviet Union. Eisenhower's Japanese visit had originally been docketed as a sequel to that. Had he gone from the Soviet Union to Japan with Khrushchev's apparent good will on his side, he would have been unassailable as an emissary of peace and a crusader for security from nuclear war.

The President actually went to the Far East against an exactly opposite background. Khrushchev had made several bitter attacks on him; the cold war was being intensified by the Soviets; the U2 affair had worried, where it did not frighten, U.S. allies; and an atmosphere of East-West hostility was spreading fast.

So far there is no evidence that Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter seriously considered a month ago the possibility of an Eisenhower involvement in a second failure of personal diplomacy.

Consideration was given rather to how the President might spend in the Far East the time which he planned originally to spend in the Soviet Union.

A violent controversy was building up in Tokyo itself between Premier Nobusuke Kishi and the opposition Socialist party over ratification of a new U. S.-Japanese security treaty.

Apparently the dangers of this situation, as they related to Eisenhower's visit, were not clearly foreseen either by Kishi or U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II in Tokyo, or by Eisenhower and Herter here. Certainly no warning signs were hoisted publicly by the administration.

In the Senate, some voices were raised in warning—among them that of Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Foreign Relations Committee. The administration stilled such cautions with the argument that the trip was necessary to the preservation of U. S. interests in the Far East.

As the post-mortem analyses set in among officials here, Kishi was charged with two major mistakes affecting the trip.

One was that he had aroused excessive opposition by the way in which he jammed the proposed new security treaty through the Diet several weeks ago.

The other is that he timed the process for ratifying the treaty so that it would be concluded Sunday, the day of Eisenhower's scheduled arrival.

The opposition Socialists issued a statement declaring cancellation of the Eisenhower visit is "the will of the people" and "an expression of opposition to Kishi that makes his resignation the only course left to him."

Zengakuren, the fanatical Marxist student group which launched the most violent of Tokyo's left-wing demonstrations, threatened "unlimited strikes and daily demonstrations until Kishi and the U. S. security treaty are thrown out."

Kishi Pledges To Bring Order

Kishi pledged measures to smash the leftist turmoil and bring order to Tokyo.

"I swear to the people that there will come a time when we will be able to welcome President Eisenhower," he said.

Kishi told newsmen that "even if there is the slightest bit of doubt about the President's safety in Japan, it makes it inappropriate for him to visit at this time."

Eisenhower, in Manila, agreed.

The embarrassing, last-minute decision was made at an emergency Cabinet meeting even as thousands of demonstrators snake-danced in the rain near the Diet shouting "Down with Kishi!" "Crush the security treaty." They cheered the announcement that Eisenhower was not coming. Police kept hands off the demonstrators, who dispersed shortly before midnight but promised to be back.

The decision reportedly was prompted by a report from Police Chief Ken Ogura that Eisenhower's security could not be fully

United States Population Set At 179,500,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. population grew by a record 28 million-plus in the past decade to an April 1 total of 179,500,000.

The Census Bureau said the 18.5 per cent increase was the largest numerical gain in any 10-year span in American history even though it fell short of expectations.

California chalked up the biggest rise. Its population was 15,537,413, an increase of 4,951,190 or 46.77 per cent over 1950.

Its sunshine rival, Florida, grew fastest on a percentage basis, however. Its total of 4,893,098 was 76.56 per cent higher than the 1950 figure of 2,771,305.

West Virginia, plagued by chronic unemployment, suffered a 7.76 per cent decline to 1,847,082 to record the biggest reduction. The District of Columbia's total also fell slightly.

In releasing the figures, the Census Bureau said the national total may be revised upward when the 1960 head count is completed.

Today's total was based on a preliminary count in the 50 states and the nation's capital. This actually came to 177,733,190 but the Census Bureau estimated it higher on the basis of servicemen overseas, crews of U.S. military and merchant ships, and persons away from home who were counted too late.

A final national total will be announced in October where tabulations have been completed.

The latest Soviet census, completed Jan. 15, 1959, reported a U.S.S.R. population of 208,826,000, an increase of about 38,226,000 over Russia's last previous census in 1939.

Communist China, with an estimated population of 669,000,000 has the most people; India with 402,750,000 is next, Russia third and the United States fourth.

Md. Population Up 31.2 Per Cent To 3,072,999

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maryland gained 31.2 per cent in population during the past decade according to preliminary figures released Thursday.

The figures showed a 1960 population of 3,072,999, compared to 2,343,001 in 1950.

Delaware had an even greater percentage increase, jumping from 318,085 in 1950 to 443,158—a gain of 39.3 per cent.

Among other neighboring states, Pennsylvania showed a 6.9 per cent increase, from 10,498,012 to 11,217,708, while West Virginia had the largest percentage drop of any state, 7.8 per cent from 2,005,552 to 1,847,082.

The District of Columbia was down 6.9 per cent, from 802,178 to 746,958.

$1.25 Minimum Pay Bill Moves Ahead In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Labor Committee voted 19-9 Thursday to approve a compromise bill which would raise the $1-an-hour federal minimum wage gradually to $1.25 and extend coverage to an additional 3,900,000 workers.

The bill, similar in most respects to a measure being considered by the Senate Labor Committee, would mean pay raises for an estimated 3,300,000 workers.

The committee split generally along party lines. Two Republicans, Reps. Joe Holt (Calif.) and Stuyvesant Wainwright (N.Y.) joined 17 Democrats in voting for it. It was opposed by one Democrat, Rep. Phil M. Landrum (Ga.) and eight Republicans.

Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) sponsor of the measure, said he hoped the House Rules Committee would clear it next week for a House vote the following week.

Senators Imply Criticism Of U2 Case Handling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee said Thursday that U. S. intelligence activities are as important as armed strength but must be continuously reviewed and coordinated to weigh "gains against risks."

The subcommittee outlined its conclusions in a unanimous report which skirted specific mention of the U2 spy plane incident but dealt with many of the issues raised by the case.

The group is studying how basic national security policies are hammered out within the administration. It is one of two Senate panels which has studied the U2 incident, which was seized upon by Nikita S. Khrushchev to wreck the Paris summit meeting.

The report said there are seven "tested principles" of intelligence work and "recent events have not altered the need for adherence to these principles." Rather, it said, events have attested to their wisdom.

The subcommittee added that it will use these principles as guidelines in making recommendations for improving intelligence activities and security planning.

The principles listed included:

—"The free world needs intelligence activities to assure its survival. Intelligence is as important as armed strength. In this age of push-button weapons, intelligence is more than ever our first line of defense.

—"Intelligence operations are instruments of national policy. They must be subject to effective and continuing higher review and coordination. This includes a weighing of gains against risks.

—"The collection and evaluation of intelligence is a job for professionals. Intelligence organization should be tight, centralized, responsive, and to the greatest possible extent anonymous."

D.C. Vote Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Thursday night approved a proposed constitutional amendment that would give residents of the District of Columbia the right to vote for president and vice president.

Passage was by a voice vote.

Eisenhower Rests Aboard U.S. Cruiser

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP)—Under a near-wartime alert, President Eisenhower sailed toward Formosa Friday after an affectionate farewell from the Philippines.

In a light tropical rain, he said goodby Thursday night to "a friendly government and a friendly people."

He said nothing of the decision to cancel his trip to Japan, but he was clearly unhappy about it.

Wearied by the wild and happy Manila reception, he boarded a Navy launch just before midnight and rode out to the cruiser St. Paul, anchored in Manila Bay. The vessel, flagship of the 7th Fleet, is due at the Nationalist Chinese bastion of Formosa Saturday.

The fighter planes from the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga are flying constant air cover. The entire 7th Fleet is on alert against any moves by Communist China, which has made several military threats against Nationalist outposts near the mainland and poured out constant abuse of Eisenhower's Far Eastern visit.

Red Agitators Blamed

Although Eisenhower was personally silent on the riots in Tokyo that forced cancellation of his trip to Japan, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower blamed the violence on "a small, organized minority led by professional Communist agitators."

Even before the President left Washington, some advisers had counseled him to avoid Japan, but the President insisted on going. He hoped the trip would prove that democratic leaders—whether Japanese or American—would not bow to mob pressure.

U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II reported from Tokyo that Japanese leftists would not dare to attempt violence against Eisenhower, especially if he was accompanied by Emperor Hirohito on the way from the airport.

But security officials doubted this more and more as the rioting grew more violent in Tokyo.

Before leaving Manila, the President bound the United States closer to Philippine defense by pledging U.S. troops would come to the instant aid of that island nation in case of attack.

Philippine Leaders Gratified

This represented a diplomatic success capping his personal triumph in Manila. Philippine officials, who want U.S. defense pledges in black and white, were delighted. One said: "This makes our cups brim over."

Eisenhower spent the last afternoon hours of his 2½-day visit at a rally of more than 100,000 cheering Filipinos in Luneta Park.

His face ruddy after two days under the Manila sun, he appeared relaxed. He sat with President Carlos P. Garcia of the Philippines under an oval roof shading the sun.

The crowd laughed appreciately every time Eisenhower smiled or joked with Garcia. They cheered when he craned his neck to follow a high-flying jet.

In his speech, Eisenhower promised that the United States "shall never close the door to peaceful negotiations" with Communist nations.

But in a clear reference to the collapse of the Paris summit con-

Teacher Fights Dismissal For Too Much Homework

Miss Emeline Stearns, a history and geography teacher here for 19 years, said she may consult soon with officials of the National Education Association (NEA) in Washington.

"I feel there is more involved than just the question of whether I get my job back," Miss Stearns said.

"American education needs to be strengthened," she contended. "In dismissing me, the cause of education is weakened."

The Fredericksburg School Board this week reaffirmed its prior decision not to renew Miss Stearns' contract at James Monroe High School for 1960-61 although a delegation of her former students asked the board to reconsider.

The board, Miss Stearns contended, acted on the complaints of a small minority of parents with whom she was never confronted. She charged they wanted their children "to get high grades without studying."

The school board said in a statement that the decision was made "in the best interest of the public schools of Fredericksburg."

Ike Trip Cancellation Seen As Diplomatic Calamity

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington viewed as a diplomatic catastrophe the cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

The event—and the forces which brought it about—threaten the future of the U.S.-Japanese alliance.

Officially, authorities at the State Department and elsewhere in the administration are cautiously optimistic.

Privately, they vary between anxiety and disgust over the way the President's goodwill mission has been turned into hostility, bitterness and defeat. They blame blunders and bad handling on the Allied side and shrewd, ruthless exploitation by leaders of the Communist bloc.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the chieftains of Red China won a stunning victory in their cold war campaign to cut down U.S. prestige and destroy the system of alliances and foreign bases which constitute the free world's forward defenses against Soviet-Chinese Communist power.

Eisenhower was caught in a humiliating position for the second time in exactly one month. On May 16 at Paris, Khrushchev wrecked the Big Four summit conference over the U2 spy plane incident and began his campaign of invective against Eisenhower personally.

The two events are unquestionably related.

The summit brought a Khrushchev cancellation of Eisenhower's scheduled June visit to the Soviet Union. Eisenhower's Japanese visit had originally been docketed as a sequel to that. Had he gone from the Soviet Union to Japan with Khrushchev's apparent good will on his side, he would have been unassailable as an emissary of peace and a crusader for security from nuclear war.

The President actually went to the Far East against an exactly opposite background. Khrushchev had made several bitter attacks on him; the cold war was being intensified by the Soviets; the U2 affair had worried, where it did not frighten, U.S. allies; and an atmosphere of East-West hostility was spreading fast.

So far there is no evidence that Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter seriously considered a month ago the possibility of an Eisenhower involvement in a second failure of personal diplomacy.

Consideration was given rather to how the President might spend in the Far East the time which he planned originally to spend in the Soviet Union.

A violent controversy was building up in Tokyo itself between Premier Nobusuke Kishi and the opposition Socialist party over ratification of a new U. S.-Japanese security treaty.

Apparently the dangers of this situation, as they related to Eisenhower's visit, were not clearly foreseen either by Kishi or U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II in Tokyo, or by Eisenhower and Herter here. Certainly no warning signs were hoisted publicly by the administration.

In the Senate, some voices were raised in warning—among them that of Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Foreign Relations Committee. The administration stilled such cautions with the argument that the trip was necessary to the preservation of U. S. interests in the Far East.

As the post-mortem analyses set in among officials here, Kishi was charged with two major mistakes affecting the trip.

One was that he had aroused excessive opposition by the way in which he jammed the proposed new security treaty through the Diet several weeks ago.

The other is that he timed the process for ratifying the treaty so that it would be concluded Sunday, the day of Eisenhower's scheduled arrival.

Soviet Newspaper Says Eisenhower To Blame For Bloody Japanese Riots

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia blamed President Eisenhower Thursday for the blood shed in Japanese riots. It said he was responsible for the political crisis caused by the demonstrations.

In reporting cancellation of the President's trip to Japan, Izvestia accompanied the story with a photograph of bleeding students lying in a Tokyo street.

"This is the mission of good will of President Eisenhower," the newspaper said in an editorial. "His hands are stained with the blood of the Japanese who remained lying near the Parliament building in Tokyo."

Izvestia was the first Soviet newspaper to report the news. The story broke too late for morning papers.

"The doors to Japan are closed for Eisenhower," the editorial said. "The political crisis in the country is being brought to a head and the country swept with a wave of nationwide protest against the American henchmen (Premier Nobusuke) Kishi and company, against the herald of the policy of aggression and war, Eisenhower.

"It was actually the Japanese people who canceled the trip."

The Japanese action followed by less than a month the withdrawal by Premier Nikita Khrushchev of an invitation to Eisenhower to visit the Soviet Union. Since that time Eisenhower personally has borne the brunt of Soviet attacks, both by Khrushchev and by the official press.

Tass said cancellation of the Japanese visit was a "crushing blow" to U.S. prestige and "a victory for the Japanese people."

Autopsy Fails To Show Cause Of Girl's Death

BALTIMORE (AP)—An autopsy on the body of 9-year-old Alva Jean Parris, found in a shallow grave near here Wednesday, failed to disclose today how the bright, brown-eyed youngster met her death.

Investigators said they found no indication the little girl had been shot, stabbed or strangled after she disappeared last Friday from her home in a low-rent housing project.

Dr. William Lovitt, assistant medical examiner, estimated Alva Jean had been dead since shortly after her disappearance. Her body was found near a deserted farmhouse near Essex, on Baltimore's eastern outskirts.

She was clad in shorts, a blouse and socks. Her shoes were found nearby shortly before searchers came upon her body in a crude grave covered with a piece of linoleum, some twigs and a sprinkling of dirt. Police said the linoleum apparently was taken from the farmhouse.

The discovery ended a five-day search for Alva Jean, the daughter of Mrs. Fredonia Parris. She and Alva Jean's father, Ralph Parris, are the parents of three other children. Police said the couple are separated and Parris had moved to Monroe, Tenn.

Baltimore County detectives roped off a three-acre area around the grave and began a yard-by-yard search for clues.

Family Slaying Suspect's Rights Believed Violated

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union has asked the Justice Department to investigate whether the civil rights of a suspect in the Jackson family murder case were violated by his confinement in a Virginia mental institution, the Anne Arundel County Star said Thursday.

The Star, a weekly newspaper published here, said in a copyrighted story that the Civil Liberties Union is "studying the possibility of a habeas corpus proceeding to free the man from the mental institution."

The story said relatives of the man, identified as a 34-year-old former Anne Arundey County resident, were "startled" to learn he had been confined after a predawn hearing in Fairfax County, Va. last Friday.

The man was confined on a lunacy petition signed by his wife after Dutch telepathist Peter Herkos had tabbed him as a suspect following visits to the grave sites in Virginia and Maryland where the bodies of Carroll V. Jackson and his wife and two children were found.

The family disappeared Jan. 11, 1959, as they were returning by car to their home in Louisa County, Va.

Herkos entered the case recently at the request of Dr. F. Regis Riesenman, a St. Elizabeth's Hospital psychiatrist. After visits to the shallow graves near Fredericksburg, Va. and Annapolis, Md. they interviewed the wife of the man now in the hospital.

The Star said a sister of the man residing here was not aware of her brother's commitment to the Southwestern State Hospital for the Criminally Insane and neither were a brother of the man near here and another brother in New York.

Meantime, the College of Bishops announced approval of the meeting's recommendation, voted Wednesday night, to make West Virginia a separate Episcopal Area of the church. Charleston was named as the location for the new area's Episcopal seat.

The jurisdiction will elect two more bishops. Each nominee must receive at least 60 per cent of the votes of those delegates present. Assignments will be made after election, including the head of the newly created West Virginia area.

Navy Locates Giant Balloon Off Coast

PT. ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI)—The Navy triumphantly announced Thursday night it has found its delinquent 40-story research balloon—just 180 miles off the coast.

The announcement came from this Pacific missile range base, midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles, even as three members of the team that chased it across the country left for Honolulu.

At dusk, the balloon—carrying valuable instruments to sample cosmic radiation—was about 190 miles straight west of the base at 68,000 feet.

Radar sites used in tracking missiles picked up the balloon just as a blip late this afternoon, the Navy said, and later two planes from Moffett Field, Calif., confirmed it was the huge sphere lost to radar trackers since Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church Thursday night elected two bishops.

The Rev. Dr. Fred G. Holloway, president of Drew University, Madison, N.J., and the Rev. Dr. W. Vernon Middleton, Philadelphia, were elected on the fifth ballot by the 314 delegates to the jurisdiction's quadrennial meetmeeting.

Meantime, the College of Bishops announced approval of the meeting's recommendation, voted Wednesday night, to make West Virginia a separate Episcopal Area of the church. Charleston was named as the location for the new area's Episcopal seat.

The jurisdiction will elect two more bishops. Each nominee must receive at least 60 per cent of the votes of those delegates present. Assignments will be made after election, including the head of the newly created West Virginia area.

August 20 was selected as the date for a study class. It will be on the book, "Hymns of the Ages," and will be held at the Cook cottage, Fort Ashby.

Mrs. John S. Cook Sr. extended an invitation to the society to hold its next meeting in the form of a family picnic at her cottage July 12. The society from First EUB Church will be guests.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. H. L. Nesbitt. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Richard Cook, Mrs. H. J. Rowley, Mrs. John Cook, and Mrs. L. J. Brotemarkle. The report on the Virginia Conference of the Women's Society of World Service, held in Martinsburg, was given by Mrs. Melvie Rider, Mrs. Maybelle True, Mrs. Nesbitt and Mrs. John Cook.

Nancy Growden Heads Bi-County Fire Auxiliary

Officers were elected and plans for communications discussed at the 19th annual meeting of the Allegany-Garrett County Ladies Auxiliary of the Volunteer Firemen, held at Deer Park. It was decided to send all letters to the secretary of each auxiliary and that she will in turn notify the executive member of meetings. Mrs. Margaret Arnold, Lonaconing, presided. Mrs. Betty O'Brian, president of the Deer Park Auxiliary, extended a welcome. Corsages were presented to Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. O'Brian and Mrs. Anna Stakem, Midland.

Mrs. Nancy Growden, Bedford Road Auxiliary, was elected president; Mrs. Edna Hounshell, Cresaptown, senior vice president; Mrs. Minnie Thomas, Clarysville, junior vice president; Mrs. Elda Schell, LaVale, secretary; Mrs. Harriett Hutchison, Lonaconing, treasurer; Mrs. Constance Dayton, McCoole, chaplain; Mrs. Nedra Nixon, Bowman's Addition, historian; Mrs. Grace Evans, Kitzmiller, guard; Mrs. Jane Davis, Barton; Mrs. Olive Long, Oldtown, color bearers; Mrs. Anna Layton Reel, Gormania, pianist; Mrs. Joyce Kirk, Bowling Green; Mrs. Frances Comp, Deer Park, and Mrs. Hazel Swauger, Mt. Savage, trustees.

Installation was by Mrs. Mary Alice Blair, Hampstead, state president. Mrs. Hilda Phillips, Lonaconing, was judge for the election; and Mrs. Swauger and Mrs. Myrtle Saville, Barton, tellers.

A donation of $100 was given to the Bessie Marshall Hospital fund. Announcement was made that Mrs. Hounshell is a candidate for state vice chaplain and Mrs. Growden, color bearer. The state convention will be held June 22, 23 at Ocean City.

Two committees were appointed: the publicity committee with Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, LaVale, for Cumberland; Mrs. Sarah Carter, of Mt. Savage for Frostburg; and Mrs. Comp, of Deer Park, for Garrett county; and a ways and means committee with Mrs. Colleen Smith and Mrs. Jeannetta Pritts.

The meeting was opened with the presentation of colors with Mrs. Dayton and Mrs. Nixon color bearers. Following the flag salute, Mrs. Alma Wilt, District 16, offered prayer and read the Scripture. Brief talks were given by Mrs. Blair, state president; Mrs. Loretta Hall of Cabin John; Mrs. Ruth Forward, Bowleys Quarters, state vice presidents; Mrs. Bessie Marshall, Reistertown, hospital chairman; Ralph Small, Boulevard Heights, state president of the firemen; and William Smith, of Luke, county president. A trio composed of Linda Teets, Sandra Harvey and Caroline O'Brian sang "Whispering Hope," and "Now Is The Hour," with Mrs. Pleasant Thrasher at the piano.

Yearly reports were given by Mrs. Ann Kammauf, LaVale; Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Hounshell. Roll call was answered by 12 past presidents; and four guests. There were 127 women attending, representing 21 auxiliaries. During the social hour, Mrs. Clara Tippen Blake won the award; Mrs. Dayton and Mrs. Zembower, the silver march. It was announced that the picnic will be held July 20 at New Germany and the next meeting in Clarysville.

The roll call of deceased members was followed by Scripture reading by Mrs. Arnold and Rev. Joseph Gerstell. James Minter, Baltimore County, state chaplain.

Dairy Worker Leans On Truck, Electrocuted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gerald Newett, 49 - year - old dairy company worker, was killed by an electrical shock Wednesday when he leaned against a refrigerator truck while standing on ground made wet by rain.

Rufus Franklin, 57, a co-worker, said that the truck's refrigerator was connected with a 240 volt electric line from the garage when Newett touched it.

Aim for fitting-room manners befitting a lady.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fitting Room Manners

Milady's manners in fitting-rooms tell a great deal about the lady herself . Ask any salesperson who has done time in a dress salon—glance through any sale-rack and you'll find a number of superior garments that had to be marked down because milady mistreated them.

She might mind her manners if she would think of two other women as well as of herself—the clerk who must clean up after her and the next customer who wishes to try the discarded dresses.

Always observe the ground-rules at each shop. If ashtrays are provided, you may feel free to use them. If they are not, and especially if No Smoking signs are posted, this is neither the time nor the place to light a cigarette.

Some salons provide paper lip protectors or tissues to help you prevent smearing dresses with your lipstick. If they are not provided, use tissues of your own or, at least ,press your lips together when you slip a new dress over your head. Keep in mind your own distaste when you spot some stranger's indelible imprint on a dress that you want to try.

No matter what the size tag tells you, if a tight squeeze is giving you a fit instead of a fitting, take the garment off—before you take off the buttons and split the seams!

You should remove your shoes, of course, before fitting slacks, shorts, bathing suits and girdles. This is easier to remember when your shopping-shoes are quick to slip off and on again for mirror-inspection.

Use care and patience in removing a new garment from its hanger, pins and clips, to avoid inflicting accidental rips and snags (on yourself as well as the dress).

And PLEASE replace the garment on its hanger when you are through with your fittings, unless a clerk is present to take it from you. Sheer courtesy won't allow you to leave it in a heap on a chair . . . or on the floor.

In all fairness to milady, I must agree that some fitting rooms invite bad manners with their slovenly maintenance, poor light, inadequate facilities and cramped quarters.

But this is no excuse to lower your standards. Instead, you might graciously hint to the management that they raise theirs.

Some salons provide paper lip protectors or tissues to help you prevent smearing dresses with your lipstick. If they are not provided, use tissues of your own or, at least ,press your lips together when you slip a new dress over your head. Keep in mind your own distaste when you spot some stranger's indelible imprint on a dress that you want to try.

No matter what the size tag tells you, if a tight squeeze is giving you a fit instead of a fitting, take the garment off—before you take off the buttons and split the seams!

You should remove your shoes, of course, before fitting slacks, shorts, bathing suits and girdles. This is easier to remember when your shopping-shoes are quick to slip off and on again for mirror-inspection.

Use care and patience in removing a new garment from its hanger, pins and clips, to avoid inflicting accidental rips and snags (on yourself as well as the dress).

And PLEASE replace the garment on its hanger when you are through with your fittings, unless a clerk is present to take it from you. Sheer courtesy won't allow you to leave it in a heap on a chair . . . or on the floor.

In all fairness to milady, I must agree that some fitting rooms invite bad manners with their slovenly maintenance, poor light, inadequate facilities and cramped quarters.

But this is no excuse to lower your standards. Instead, you might graciously hint to the management that they raise theirs.

Briton Conquers Peak

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two weeks ago I decided to form a club. I got two other girls my age (12 years old) to join. They elected me president. The purpose of the club is to be friends and do interesting things.

No matter what I want to do they are against it. We take a vote and I lose. If I want to go bowling, they vote for a movie. When I want to go skating they vote to go dime store shopping.

I'm afraid I'm going to lose my presidency if I can't think of a way to get some unity into the club in a hurry. How can I do it? —MADAME PRESIDENT

DEAR MADAME: A president is not supposed to inflict his will on the members. In a democracy the majority rules — not the president.

Why not take in a few additional members. They might have some brand new ideas and the club would be more fun. (It could shift the balance of power, too.)

DEAR ANN: Recently I married after being a widow for ten years. The man I married lost his mate five years ago.

It was agreed when we married that I was to quit my job and do whatever I chose with the small income from my husband's estate. It was further agreed that we'd live on his salary, and what was his was mine, also.

Now that we're married he takes me to the market once a week, pushes the cart and I walk behind him like a child. If I pick an item off the shelf he says "Put it back. We don't need it." He pays the rent and utilities. If I want a piece of clothing, he comes with me to pick it out and he pays for it.

My pocket book is so empty I keep tissue paper in it so it won't look so flat. Why should I have to beg for money when I was once completely independent and could be that way again if I went back to work? What do you suggest? — J. W.

DEAR J. W.: I suggest you sit down with your husband and review the original agreement that you "live on his salary and what's his is yours, also."

Every woman should have some money to spend as she wishes, as a matter of dignity. She's a partner in the marriage, even if she's not bringing home a pay check.

If he doesn't loosen up, tell him you're going back to work and he can pay a housekeeper to cook and clean and follow him around the market when he shops.

DEAR ANN: Is it smart to let a husband drive the day-lady, (she's younger than I am), my cousin, my sisters and the next-door neighbor to the bus-line without me?

Recently when he offered to drive my cousin I suggested he take the kids along for the ride. He blew up and said "For Pete's sake Helen, cut it out. I don't need a chaperone."

What does this sound like to you? — WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: It sounds like your suspicions are showing. Since you object to his being alone with the cleaning lady, the cousin and the sisters, your jealousy covers a wide range.

If the kids had asked to go along and he said no, it would be different. But when YOU suggest they accompany him it indicates you feel he needs watching. He resents this, and he has a right to.

Cut it out, Helen, or you may put ideas in his head.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Orchards In Area Report Damage

Apple and peach orchards in the immediate Romney area received the most damage from the strip of hail that pummeled parts of the two-state region Tuesday night.

Orchard damage was evaluated Wednesday and the Romney ones were reported to have been the only ones to have been hit by the hail.

Oddly enough, while parts of West Side and North End were getting considerable hail the Consolidated Orchards, Inc., apple, peach and cherry trees on Irons Mountain were not even disturbed by wind.

About four weeks ago, some orchards in the Allegany, Hampshire and Morgan county belt received scattered hail damage.

Dead Pilot Cleared In Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government today cleared a dead Trans World Airlines pilot of responsibility for a five-year-old airliner crash. His widow said the action may make her troubled life more bearable.

The Civil Aeronautics Board previously had blamed an error by the pilot, Capt. Ivan Spong, for the Feb. 19, 1955, crash near Albuquerque, N.M., in which 16 persons were killed. It issued a revised report today calling the crash "unsolved."

In Marceline, Mo., the pilot's widow, Jean, said she had been waiting all these years for the "wonderful" news. She said it also was wonderful for her 10-year-old son, Michael, who had been subjected to taunts by his schoolmates.

She also paid tribute to the Airline Pilots Association (ALPA) which had fought to clear her husband, and to TWA pilot J. L. De Celles, who represented the association even though he never knew the dead flier.

The densest of clouds are probably not more than one part water to 30 thousand parts air.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybeans advanced more than a cent, but other grains were steady in a quiet market Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The wheat pit was inactive. Small hedge sales appeared, but these were lighter than in the previous session. Prices ruled steady through most of the day. Turkey bought 1,000,000 bushels of hard wheat on a barter basis.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ¼; corn up ¼ to ½; oats unchanged to up ⅛; rye off ⅝ to up ¼; and soybeans up ½ to 1⅜.

The Kansas cash premium fell as much as 6 cents, reflecting increased movement of the new crop. Offers were submitted on 917,000 sacks of flour.

Corn futures were steady after an early rise which resulted from cash house buying. Elevators bought July and sold September. The spot basis eased to a point 3½ cents above July.

Heavy rains fell in the corn belt. The moisture was considered favorable for corn but was expected to hamper soybean planting.

Oats also were slow. Commission houses bought deferred contracts, which cash interests sold while purchasing July.

Rye futures eased early as light profit-taking cut into Wednesday's strong advance. Export subsidies were granted on 200,000 bushels.

Weather news and higher oil prices aided soybean futures. Commission houses were on both sides, and cash interests bought July and November beans. The local CCC office sold 44,562 bushels Wednesday.

Exporters reported the Continent bought 2,000 tons of soybeans.

Outside markets were mixed.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) —"Kissin' Mistle" and mad gavels are two of life's newest little things.

The mad gavels have mad slogans attached. For Example: "I Hate Argumen\"; "You Can't Fight City Hall."

The Dan Cupids in the plastic industry are hoping that males and females will don the kissin' bands year 'round.

They guarantee wearers to "one million kisses and a heap of fun." But they also warn: "Effect powerful; wear with care. Manufacturer cannot be responsible for bruising, dishevelment, mayhem nor for any alliance or misalliance resulting from wearing."

The light touch in the notions industry helps to boost the sale of life's little things to 500 million dollars a year.

Richard M Bleier, president of the National Notions Association, said in an interview that the notions merchants hope to lift the nation's economy even more in the months ahead.

The notions business started out poker-faced, straight - laced and small. Even prices were petite in the notions department 30 years ago.

There were such things as needles and pins, buttons and thread. "A dime bought a lot in the beginning," Bleier said. "But now we're more complicated, more versatile and higher priced."

The folks who used to peddle hair pins now are showing ornate crowns full of glittery stones. These $20 adornments aim to make plain Jane Doe look like a queen.

Mass Population Exceeds Five Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau reported Wednesday the population of Massachusetts now exceeds five million and Connecticut has more than 2½ million residents.

The bureau said a preliminary field count gives Massachusetts a 1960 population of 5,119,511—an increase of 9.1 per cent over the 1950 level of 4,609,514.

The bureau said the population of the Panama Canal Zone has decreased 21 per cent the past 10 years, partly because of a reduction in the work force of the Panama Canal Co. It announced a preliminary 1960 population total of 41,684 for the zone, a decrease of 11,138 from the 1950 count of 52,822.

Gliding was primarily developed in Germany.

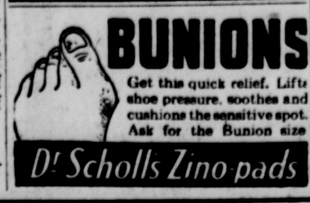
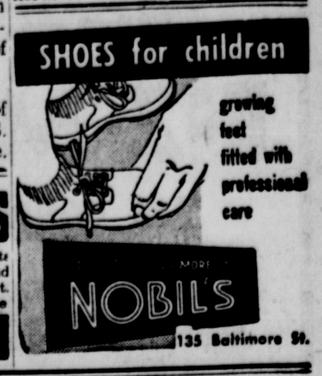
To Try Pilot

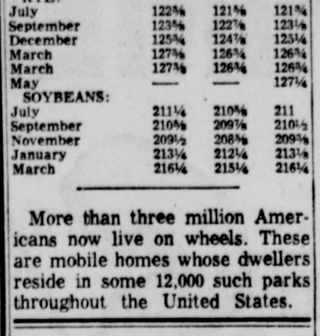
JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Second Lt. Daniel Maukar, the Indonesian air force jet pilot who strafed President Sukarno's palaces here and in Bobor and the village of Tjilintjing last March will go on trial next Monday, the government announced.

Nineteen persons were reported wounded in the strafing.

Two-thirds of Africa is in the northern hemisphere.







Dead Pilot Cleared In Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government today cleared a dead Trans World Airlines pilot of responsibility for a five-year-old airliner crash. His widow said the action may make her troubled life more bearable.

The Civil Aeronautics Board previously had blamed an error by the pilot, Capt. Ivan Spong, for the Feb. 19, 1955, crash near Albuquerque, N.M., in which 16 persons were killed. It issued a revised report today calling the crash "unsolved."

In Marceline, Mo., the pilot's widow, Jean, said she had been waiting all these years for the "wonderful" news. She said it also was wonderful for her 10-year-old son, Michael, who had been subjected to taunts by his schoolmates.

She also paid tribute to the Airline Pilots Association (ALPA) which had fought to clear her husband, and to TWA pilot J. L. De Celles, who represented the association even though he never knew the dead flier.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybeans advanced more than a cent, but other grains were steady in a quiet market Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The wheat pit was inactive. Small hedge sales appeared, but these were lighter than in the previous session. Prices ruled steady through most of the day. Turkey bought 1,000,000 bushels of hard wheat on a barter basis.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ¼; corn up ¼ to ½; oats unchanged to up ⅛; rye off ⅝ to up ¼; and soybeans up ½ to 1⅜.

The Kansas cash premium fell as much as 6 cents, reflecting increased movement of the new crop. Offers were submitted on 917,000 sacks of flour.

Corn futures were steady after an early rise which resulted from cash house buying. Elevators bought July and sold September. The spot basis eased to a point 3½ cents above July.

Heavy rains fell in the corn belt. The moisture was considered favorable for corn but was expected to hamper soybean planting.

Oats also were slow. Commission houses bought deferred contracts, which cash interests sold while purchasing July.

Rye futures eased early as light profittaking cut into Wednesday's strong advance. Export subsidies were granted on 200,000 bushels.

Weather news and higher oil prices aided soybean futures. Commission houses were on both sides, and cash interests bought July and November beans. The local CCC office sold 44,562 bushels Wednesday.

Exporters reported the Continent bought 2,000 tons of soybeans.

Outside markets were mixed.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) —"Kissin' Mistle" and mad gavels are two of life's newest little things.

The mad gavels have mad slogans attached. For Example: "I Hate Argumen\"; "You Can't Fight City Hall."

The Dan Cupids in the plastic industry are hoping that males and females will don the kissin' bands year 'round.

They guarantee wearers to "one million kisses and a heap of fun." But they also warn: "Effect powerful; wear with care. Manufacturer cannot be responsible for bruising, dishevelment, mayhem nor for any alliance or misalliance resulting from wearing."

The light touch in the notions industry helps to boost the sale of life's little things to 500 million dollars a year.

Richard M Bleier, president of the National Notions Association, said in an interview that the notions merchants hope to lift the nation's economy even more in the months ahead.

The notions business started out poker-faced, straight - laced and small. Even prices were petite in the notions department 30 years ago.

There were such things as needles and pins, buttons and thread. "A dime bought a lot in the beginning," Bleier said. "But now we're more complicated, more versatile and higher priced."

The folks who used to peddle hair pins now are showing ornate crowns full of glittery stones. These $20 adornments aim to make plain Jane Doe look like a queen.

Mass Population Exceeds Five Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau reported Wednesday the population of Massachusetts now exceeds five million and Connecticut has more than 2½ million residents.

The bureau said a preliminary field count gives Massachusetts a 1960 population of 5,119,511—an increase of 9.1 per cent over the 1950 level of 4,609,514.

For Connecticut, the 1960 figure is 2,510,265. This is up 25 per cent over the 1950 level of 2,007,280.

The bureau said the population of the Panama Canal Zone has decreased 21 per cent the past 10 years, partly because of a reduction in the work force of the Panama Canal Co. It announced a preliminary 1960 population total of 41,684 for the zone, a decrease of 11,138 from the 1950 count of 52,822.

Gliding was primarily developed in Germany.

Explanation Of Merit Auto Insurance Plan Scheduled

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council's motor vehicles committee will call for an explanation July 7 of a merit rating insurance plan being offered to Maryland motorists.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th), committee chairman, said a representative of the state insurance commission and an agent for the insurance companies will be asked to appear.

Silver said the committee wants to be certain that the new insurance plan isn't designed to eliminate bad driving risks from obtaining normal coverage.

The plan offers motorists with perfect driving records as much as 15 per cent below basic premiums. Other drivers are charged as much as 130 per cent more, depending on their records.

The insurance companies base the premium on penalty points against drivers convicted of certain traffic law violations.

Silver said his committee particularly wants explanations of the retroactive feature of the plan, certification of the insurance application and comparison of the point system with the state's forthcoming similar proposal.

The state will start assessing points leading to suspension and revocation of driver licenses Dec. 31. All drivers will start out with a clean record.

The insurance companies count violations during the three years preceding an application. It also requires an agent to be present when the applicant signs.

Mandatory Hearings Before Patuxent Transfers Proposed

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Circuit Judge D. K. McLaughlin said Thursday the law should be amended to require a court hearing for every person before being sent to the Patuxent Institution.

The former state senator said he will urge the Legislature to make a hearing mandatory.

He found fault with the present system by which a prisoner at another corrective institution may be transferred to Patuxent without a judge or jury having determined he is a defective delinquent. A person committed to Patuxent may be held there for an indeterminate time.

Judge McLaughlin conceded such a prisoner may apply to a court for hearing within 60 days after commitment. But he said "some may not know of this right."

Idle Pay Law Meetings Set

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council's judiciary committee will go to the public in a search for abuses or criticism of the Maryland jobless benefit program.

Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester), committee chairman, announced Thursday the public will be asked for its opinion at meetings in Baltimore, Frederick and Salisbury.

"We want to hear from anyone and everyone in Maryland and collect their views on any injustices, criticism, proposed changes or other attitudes concerning the unemployment law or its administration," Sen. Malkus said.

He also invited anyone to write him.

The open meetings will be held in the State Office Building in Baltimore June 29, the Winchester Hall in Frederick June 30 and in Salisbury July 1.

In advance, Malkus said he asked Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Maryland Employment Security Department, for a complete report.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's irregular milling so far this week failed to dampen some Wall Street observers' optimism about a renewed advance.

They feel the market is entitled to a rest after last week's steep climb and is consolidating for an assault on the year's high.

Alan C. Poole of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. said the market's recent action suggests the industrial average will reach its old high and that the momentum of the summer rise will drive it well over 700.

Poole points out that in every presidential election year since World War II the market declined from a January high and later recovered approximately twice its loss.

"In 1960, although the decline from 685 to 599, or 12.5 per cent, was more severe than in previous postwar presidential election years, a recovery of proportions comparable to previous recoveries appears reasonable," Poole said.

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. commented that the market apparently is consolidating its recent gains and it seems doubtful that the selling will gain any momentum.

"Actually," he said, "it is more likely that a base will be established at or near current levels from which the next phase of the recovery movement will begin."

Trend Moving Toward Church Central Altars

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The altar of the future may be a simple table located in the middle of the church.

The trend is moving that way in the opinion of Dr. Edward S. Frey, executive director of the department of church architecture of the United Lutheran Church of America.

"In the first five years of our department," says Frey, "we didn't see a single plan to indicate such a trend.

"But in the last three years we've seen about 15 out of a thousand, and two or three hundred of the others featured free-standing altars, that is, altars moved slightly away from the wall."

Pastor Frey, who notes the trend in Roman Catholic and Reformed as well as Lutheran churches, attributes the shifting altar to the liturgical revival of the past 30 years.

"It's designed to inspire a greater participation on the part of the people in the central act of worship—the Eucharist," he says.

Pastor Frey sees the trend toward central altars, not as a modern innovation, but as a return to the practices of the church in apostolic times.

"The early church," he says, "met together as an intimate group. Many of the oldest churches were octagonal or circular with the altar in the middle.

"The early basilicas had altars at one end of the church but not against the wall. Often the clergymen stood behind the altar facing the people.

"It wasn't until medieval times that the concept developed of he congregaion as spectators rather than participants. Then the altar started getting remote from the people."

"Perhaps," as of this moment," he adds, "more Roman Catholic than Protestant churches are moving the altar to the people."

Pastor Frey also detects a trend toward simplication of altars making them ministerial rather than mysterious or dramatic.

"The mysterious altars, the kind used in the Eastern churches, are so completely screened off from the people that you can see them only if you're sitting directly in front of the door leading to it.

"The ministerial altars, which appear mostly in the Reformed churches, are little more than tables where people gather for the sacraments.

Polio-Crippled Missionary Back In India

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI)—A brunette missionary severely crippled by polio in India 11 years ago has returned to her assignment of helping to train teachers for Indian schools.

Miriam E. Rogers, 46, has been back to India once since she was stricken in 1949, but she had to return to the United States for more medical treatment. Now, after therapy and surgery and with the aid of braces and a crutch she is able with great effort to get around.

Miss Rogers was discouraged only once, she said in an interview before leaving for India and her missionary post with the United Church of Christ. That was when she first went to Warm Springs, Ga., for therapy at a time when she was almost helpless.

"One night, I realied that no one ever left Warm Springs without a brace, a cane or a wheel chair," she said. "It was a shock to me to realize that I would have to have some kind of equipment.

"But by the time I got my crutch and braces, I was as happy as a child with a new electric train. I have never felt badly about having to use equipment since.

"With polio, you hit the bottom only once and then keep going up. You never drop back. You always hope for something more. It is not discouraging like other crippling ailments that only get worse."

The tiny woman still cannot use her left arm, but she has full use of her right arm and muscle surgery on her legs has made it possible for her to walk with less difficulty than before.

She does not like to dwell on her physical disability. She would much rather talk about her work as principal of Woronoco School in Sholapur and secretary of the Marathi Mission.

Educating Indians has been her work since she left a teaching post in Ohio in 1937 to become a missionary, first for the Congregational Christian Churches and now for the United Church of Christ, of which the Congregational now is a part.

Not all of the faculty or students at the school Miss Rogers runs are Christians and no effort is made to persuade them to change their religions. Miss Rogers and other Christians at the school hope only to increase understanding of Christianity among Hindus and Moslems.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—A story of international importance is that Prime Minister Nehru has given his personal approval to the plan of Lloyd Young to film "The Life of Mahatma Gandhi" in India this winter! Another scoop is the news that Princess Rajkimari Amurit Kauer, member of India's upper house of parliament, who for 16 years was private secretary to Gandhi, has been appointed technical advisor.

With our own President Eisenhower taking his safety in his hands to establish diplomatic friendliness toward the Eastern peoples of the world, I cannot over-emphasize the importance of such a movie undertaking.

Lloyd Young and Associates and the Navajivan Trust, a semi-public corporation established by the late Mahatma Gandhi through the minister of finance of India, will be affiliated with Al Daff, formerly executive vice president of Universal-International, in filming the Gandhi story.

For the past five weeks Howard Duff has been painfully ailing with shingles. But Ida Lupino says he's now recovered and is ready for action, which includes a feature motion picture for their company.

Ida and Howard have a script, "The End is Known," which they've had for months. They have been meeting with Julie London and she's expected to sign any edition for the feminine lead, and her husband, Bobby Troup, has been engaged to writ the musical score. Ida says she'll direct it and it's a Hitchcock-type thriller.

He'll have 14 original songs dedicated to 14 leading glamor women of the world. Each song title will be the first name of the woman to whom it is dedicated. For instance, "Brigitte," to Brigitte Bardot; "Grace" to Princess Grace; "Audrey," Audrey Hepburn; "Gina," Gina Lollobrigida—and of course "Elizabeth" to Elizabeth Taylor. Fourteen of the country's top composers will be asked to write the music and lyrics for these songs. Artist Jon Whitcomb has been engaged to do special art work.

An enchanting little boy who gets right into your heart and stays there is Marietto, in "It Started in Naples." He gives Clark Gable, Sophia Loren and that charming actor Vittorio de Sica plenty of competition, and he's a scene stealer if I ever saw one.

I asked Mel Shavelson, who wrote and directed the picture, to tell me about his Italian youngster. Mel said he and Jack Rose, the producer, are bringing Marietto to America. "You know, his English is phonetic, but he's very bright," said Mel.

Very nostalgic to me is this movie with its beautiful background scenes in Italy. It's almost as good as an actual visit to the Bay of Naples, and the Blue Grotto at Capri.

Met John Saxon at the preview of "It Started in Naples," and he told me that he had just that day been asked to play one of the leads in "The Guide," a play by Harvey Breit and Patricia Rinehart, which Jose Ferrer plans to bring to Broadway.

John thinks enough of the idea to take himself to New York and discuss the deal, as soon as he finishes "The Plunderers" with Jeff Chandler.

I looked to see if John was with Dolores Hart whom he's been escorting of late, but he was with a group of young people and Dolores was not with him.

Harry Chorlton of Los Angeles engraved the Great Seal of the United States.

Fungi and insects take their toll of seven billion dollars a year in the United States.

Lack Of Insects Lowers Fruit Crop Production

Insects play important roles in the lives of most people, and the lack of them can be mighty disturbing to the source of livelihood of hundreds of persons in this part of the Appalachian fruit belt.

This year's apple crop in the Allegany - Morgan - Hampshire-Washington county orchard area will only be about 60 per cent of last year's record crop.

And for a number of reasons, there was a lack of insect activity during the blossom stage. This has resulted in contributing to a short crop.

Entomologists in this section report that bees are the only insects the orchardist can control—that is, by hiring them from apiarists during the bloom time.

The apple blossoms in this area came out during a period of intense, un-seasonal heat during the last week of April, and due to this heat, the blooms stayed open only about 24 hours.

This, coupled with the lack of insect activity, was accompanied by fewer blossoms than last year.

The 1959 record crop had a record bloom. Experts at the West Virginia horticultural experimental station at Kearneysville point out that the buds for this year's blossoms were being formed in the trees last year during the record growing season.

That meant that most of the plant food was going to the 1959 fruit, and as a result the buds that formed this year's blossoms suffered.

This resulted in fewer blossoms. All these factors are contributing to the short crop estimated to produce from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels in the Appalachian area. This is compared to the 20,000,000 bushels last year.

Authorities point out that Hampshire County seems to be the best off as far as crops this year are concerned.

Hampshire and also Morgan County will have a higher tonnage, percentage-wise than other apple-growing counties, it is reported.

What caused the lack of insects this year?

The reason for their non-appearance is a mystery.

The national apple crop, which is normally 120,000,000 bushels, is anticipated only to be about 100,000,000.

This means there will be a grower's market this year, and not a buyer's market. Translated, this means the consumer will be paying more for apples this year than last.

City Marbles Champ Ready For Finals

Donnie Propst, 14, Cumberland's representative in the national marbles tournament at Wildwood-By-The Sea, N. J., leaves here Sunday to enter the week-long competition.

Propst, a Fort Hill student who won the city title and is sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club Youth Committee, will be accompanied to Wildwood by Delbert Proudfoot, father of Del Proudfoot who won the city title last year.

The Proudfoots have been giving Propst special training during the past week and the benefit of last year's winner experience in the national tourney. Proudfoot finished third in his league at Asbury Park, N. J., last year and except for a bad start on opening day would have finished higher. Proudfoot had a record of 37 wins and 23 losses, 10 of the losses coming on the first day. The winner from Reading, Pa., in Proudfoot's league had a 47-13 tally.

Propst, son of Mrs. Thomas Counehan, 102 Altamont Terrace, is the first Cumberland entrant to get special training.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director whose department co-sponsored the tourney with the Lions, said Propst and Proudfoot will leave by car Sunday at 8 a. m. At Wildwood, they will stay at the Rio Grande Motel. Local champions will be welcomed, presented sweaters and caps, be entertained, receive briefings on rules and taken on a tour.

Opening games of the tourney are set for Monday at 9:45 a. m. Local champs are assigned to leagues, with the winners of the leagues meeting to determine two finalists for the national title. The grand final is staged Friday, June 24.

Throughout the week, the local champ will be entertained and a guest at various amusement centers. Swimming and deep sea fishing are also on the agenda.

County May Lose Federal Road Funds

A loss of $99,000 in federal road funds faces the Board of Allegany County Commissioners in the event the National Park Service does not authorize two rights-of-way across the C&O canal in the Mexico Farms area.

John J. Rowan, board president, yesterday informed F. Patrick Allender, secretary of the Building and Construction Trades Council, that rights-of-way must be obtained before July 1.

This is due to the programming requirement of the Federal Bureau of Roads for matching funds for the construction of the relocation of Mexico Farms Road made necessary by the B&O Railroad building an overpass at the new yards in that section.

The State Roads Commission will be in charge of the supervision of construction of the road project and 50-foot rights-of-way are needed for the work.

At one point the consulting engineers will eliminate a dangerous crossing over the Western Maryland Railway.

This will be done by relocating the Mexico Farms Road and going under a bridge the railroad has constructed over the canal.

Alvin C. Wilson, vice president of the Hazelwood Company, one of the consulting engineers, said it is planned to carry water under the bridge in pipes beneath the new roadway.

At another point, the proposed road will go across the canal. Here again large pipes will be used for the canal water.

Representatives of the National Park Service who consulted with Rowan, Wilson and W. Bruce Douglas, the other consulting engineer Wednesday were non-committal concerning the rights-of-way.

But they pointed out that the park service proposes to fill the canal up in the Mexico Farms section for boating purposes and fix up the tow path for a bridal path.

The use of the canal bed beneath the Western Maryland Railway bridge over the canal will also remove a very dangerous crossing where there is little visibility, Leslie J. Clark, county attorney remarked.

TO TEACH — Miss Patricia McGill, McMullen Highway, has accepted a teaching position at the Air Force Academy High School, Colorado Springs, Col.

Ramp May Be Used Soon

John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer for the State Roads Commission, said today the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company completed construction last Friday. Bushby said he has submitted proposed traffic plans to the SRC Traffic Division which is expected to send a representative here this week.

As soon as this inspection is made and plans approved, the Long Hill stretch of the ramp connection will be opened.

The old section of Route 40 heading east would be two way to the Willowbrook Road intersection to allow traffic to enter Willowbrook and Central Avenues. From the Willowbrook intersection east, one-way traffic would be in effect.

Bushby emphasized this arrangement will be temporary since 50 per cent of the ramp connection is only temporary. Eventually, when the interchange is completed, it will move further over the present Route 40.

The temporary work was necessary to keep traffic moving.

Police Foil Theft

City Police Wednesday foiled an attempt by a young man to steal an automobile from a South Centre Street used car lot. The culprit eluded capture by hiding among the parked cars and escaping before reinforcements arrived.

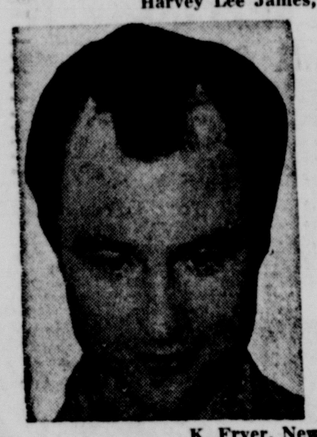
THEY RE-GREW HAIR

T. A. Melton, Jr., Hollidaysburg, Pa.

Mrs. Virginia Barnes, Edwardsport, Ind.

Harvey Lee James, Pine Hill, N. C.



K. Fryer, New Albany, Ind.

Hair Specialist Here Tomorrow; Will Show How To Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

LOUISVILLE — Erickson new home treatment methods for growing thicker hair—and preventing baldness—will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., Saturday, June 18.

Staff Director Mr. J. L. Thomas, representing the Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization, will be in charge. He will personally consult hair-worried men and women from 1 to 8:30 P.M. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

20 YEARS EXPERIENCE

The Erickson organization has over 20 years of combined experience studying and correcting-hair problems.

For example, in the past two years alone over a half-million Erickson treatments were used. Almost every minute of every wakening hour every day, some one is realizing the benefits that are derived from the Erickson treatment which is applied in the privacy of their own homes.

Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists, active in over 400 cities, are responsible for more home scalp treatments than all major hair specialists combined.

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

From the Erickson "Know-How" and experience has grown the scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson Home Treatment. We cannot help men or women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss, and the Erickson treatment is of no value to male pattern baldness. But, if you still have "fuzz" and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least try to save and thicken what you have. Some conditions such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness, dryness,—can usually benefit by Erickson Home Treatment if caught before "hair factories" are destroyed.

97% SATISFIED

Actually our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim, because we have less than 3 per cent refunds. We are proud of this outstanding record. You, too, will agree this is an excellent showing when you consider that almost every person is a "putter-offer" or "doubter" where hair is concerned. Getting "doubters" and "putter-offers" to come in for a consultation is really the problem.

FREE CONSULTATION

If you're worried about your hair, drop by the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday between 1 and 8:30 P.M. and see Mr. J. L. Thomas. Consultation is free and without obligation.

The first problem, when you come in for consultation is to determine if the Erickson treatment will benefit you. If so, you will be supplied with the proper Erickson treatment. We tell you what to do and what not to do; how long your treatments will last; what results you can expect; how much your cost will be. It is usually less than imitators. Hopeless cases are refused.

12 MONTHS WRITTEN GUARANTEE GIVEN

Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a written guarantee for the length of your treatments or up to 12 months.

Sooner or later you will see an Erickson Specialist. So why not see them now? Remember 20 years experience, 12 month guarantee, free consultation, regular check-ups, the largest scalp specialists for home treatments.

See Mr. J. L. Thomas at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday, June 18, between 1 and 8:30 P.M. only in Cumberland, Md.

You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Consultations are free and given in private.

Church To Hold Picnic Sunday

Grace Methodist Church will hold its parish picnic Sunday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club picnic grounds, beginning at 2 p. m.

Games will include horseshoes, volley ball, badminton and others. Prizes will be awarded.

Members of the congregation are asked to bring along a picnic meal, and soft drinks and ice cream will be furnished.

The day will conclude with a vesper service and song fest in the evening.

Persons needing transportation should telephone Mrs. Wolford at PA 4-1830.

The Egyptians made artificial eyes out of glass, feldspar, pearl and ivory as far back as some 2,600 years before the birth of Christ.

County Issues Building Permits

Two building permits were issued yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing Department.

Calvert Steed, city, obtained a permit to erect a stone and brick dwelling on Bedford Road at an estimated cost of $25,000. It will have concrete block foundation and asphalt shingle room. The home will measure 30 by 56 feet.

James E. Lindner obtained a permit to erect a 28 by 48 foot brick veneer dwelling off Nave's Crossroads. It will have concrete block foundation and asphalt shingle roof. No estimate of the cost was listed.

County May Lose Federal Road Funds

A loss of $99,600 in federal road funds faces the Board of Allegany County Commissioners in the event the National Park Service does not authorize two rights-of-way across the C&O canal in the Mexico Farms area.

John J. Rowan, board president, yesterday informed F. Patrick Allender, secretary of the Building and Construction Trades Council, that rights-of-way must be obtained before July 1.

This is due to the programming requirement of the Federal Bureau of Roads for matching funds for the construction of the relocation of Mexico Farms Road made necessary by the B&O Railroad building an overpass at the new yards in that section.

The State Roads Commission will be in charge of the supervision of construction of the road project and 50-foot rights-of-way are needed for the work.

At one point the consulting engineers will eliminate a dangerous crossing over the Western Maryland Railway.

This will be done by relocating the Mexico Farms Road and going under a bridge the railroad has constructed over the canal.

Alvin C. Wilson, vice president of the Hazelwood Company, one of the consulting engineers, said it is planned to carry water under the bridge in pipes beneath the new roadway.

At another point, the proposed road will go across the canal. Here again large pipes will be used for the canal water.

Representatives of the National Park Service who consulted with Rowan, Wilson and W. Bruce Douglas, the other consulting engineer Wednesday were non-committal concerning the rights-of-way.

But they pointed out that the park service proposes to fill the canal up in the Mexico Farms section for boating purposes and fix up the tow path for a bridal path.

The use of the canal bed beneath the Western Maryland Railway bridge over the canal will also remove a very dangerous crossing where there is little visibility, Leslie J. Clark, county attorney remarked.

County Issues Building Permits

Two building permits were issued yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing Department.

Calvert Steed, city, obtained a permit to erect a stone and brick dwelling on Bedford Road at an estimated cost of $25,000. It will have concrete block foundation and asphalt shingle room. The home will measure 30 by 56 feet.

James E. Lindner obtained a permit to erect a 28 by 48 foot brick veneer dwelling off Nave's Crossroads. It will have concrete block foundation and asphalt shingle roof. No estimate of the cost was listed.

Ramp May Be Used Soon

John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer for the State Roads Commission, said today the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company completed construction last Friday. Bushby said he has submitted proposed traffic plans to the SRC Traffic Division which is expected to send a representative here this week.

As soon as this inspection is made and plans approved, the Long Hill stretch of the ramp connection will be opened.

Under tentative plans, the new section would be one-way coming west toward Cumberland.

The old section of Route 40 heading east would be two way to the Willowbrook Road intersection to allow traffic to enter Willowbrook and Central Avenues. From the Willowbrook intersection east, one-way traffic would be in effect.

Bushby emphasized this arrangement will be temporary since 50 per cent of the ramp connection is only temporary. Eventually, when the interchange is completed, it will move further over the present Route 40.

The temporary work was necessary to keep traffic moving.

Police Foil Theft

City Police Wednesday foiled an attempt by a young man to steal an automobile from a South Centre Street used car lot. The culprit eluded capture by hiding among the parked cars and escaping before reinforcements arrived.

THEY RE-GREW HAIR

T. A. Melton, Jr., Hollidaysburg, Pa.

K. Fryer, New Albany, Ind.

LOUISVILLE — Erickson new home treatment methods for growing thicker hair—and preventing baldness—will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Md., Saturday, June 18.

Staff Director Mr. J. L. Thomas, representing the Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization, will be in charge. He will personally consult hair-worried men and women from 1 to 8:30 P.M. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

20 YEARS EXPERIENCE

The Erickson organization has over 20 years of combined experience studying and correcting hair problems.

For example, in the past two years alone over a half-million Erickson treatments were used. Almost every minute of every wakening hour every day, some one is realizing the benefits that are derived from the Erickson treatment which is applied in the privacy of their own homes.

Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists, active in over 400 cities, are responsible for more home scalp treatments than all major hair specialists combined.

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

From the Erickson "Know-How" and experience has grown the scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson Home Treatment. We cannot help men or women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss, and the Erickson treatment is of no value to male pattern baldness. But, if you still have "fuzz" and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least try to save and thicken what you have. Some conditions such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness, dryness,—can usually benefit by Erickson Home Treatment if caught before "hair factories" are destroyed.

97% SATISFIED

Actually our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim, because we have less than 3 per cent refunds. We are proud of this outstanding record. You, too, will agree this is an excellent showing when you consider that almost every person is a "putter-offer" or "doubter" where hair is concerned. Getting "doubters" and "putter-offers" to come in for a consultation is really the problem.

FREE CONSULTATION

If you're worried about your hair, drop by the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday between 1 and 8:30 P.M. and see Mr. J. L. Thomas. Consultation is free and without obligation.

The first problem, when you come in for consultation is to determine if the Erickson treatment will benefit you. If so, you will be supplied with the proper Erickson treatment. We tell you what to do and what not to do; how long your treatments will last; what results you can expect; how much your cost will be. It is usually less than imitators. Hopeless cases are refused.

12 MONTHS WRITTEN GUARANTEE GIVEN

Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a written guarantee for the length of your treatments or up to 12 months.

Sooner or later you will see an Erickson Specialist. So why not see them now? Remember 20 years experience, 12 month guarantee, free consultation, regular check-ups, the largest scalp specialists for home treatments.

See Mr. J. L. Thomas at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday, June 18, between 1 and 8:30 P.M. only in Cumberland, Md.

You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Consultations are free and given in private.

Year Of Mourning For Baltic States

Twenty years of independence—followed by 20 years of rule by Communist Russia which, in violation of solemn treaties, occupied their lands and forced them into the Soviet Union.

That, in briefest terms, is the history of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania in the years that have passed since 1920 when they were given national identities under the treaty of Versailles.

The invasion of these three countries in June 1940 stands as one of the great crimes of history. In 1932 they had entered into non-aggression pacts with the Soviet Union. But the end came swiftly eight years later on the heels of a sudden ultimatum. Two months more and the three nations were formally declared part of Russia.

Available information says that by 1955 a total of 90,000 Estonians had been sent to Siberia. Ten years ago 290,000 Latvians had been deported from their homeland. And in 1952 Lithuanians had counted 350,000 deported and 25,000 killed.

But the spirit of these people, whose struggles for national existence dates back to the Middle Ages, has not been broken by two decades of Soviet misrule. Refugees still reach free soil and report that the old indomitable fire still burns strongly.

In the United States a year of mourning has just been started by the American Baltic Commemorative Committee under the honorary chairmanship of Herbert Hoover. The purpose is to "make these brave people realize that their friends in the free world have not forgotten them."

The crime that struck down Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania was the initial step in the march that has brought the Communist threat so close to the West today. No final accord with the Russian government should fail to right the wrong that was visited upon the proud, free peoples of these Baltic countries.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Barry Goldwater

Senator Barry Goldwater comes from a small state, Arizona. He made his mark in the Senate immediately and has grown in stature rapidly because he has a philosophic turn of mind and can speak in broader terms than mere partisan politics.

He is a Conservative. But he does not deal with Conservatism as some ancient shibboleth but rather as a normal, American concept of life based on historic memory. In his book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," he writes:

"Surely the first obligation of a political thinker is to understand the nature of man. The Conservative does not claim special powers of perception on this point, but he does claim a familiarity with the accumulated wisdom and experience of history, and he is not too proud to learn from the great minds of the past."

It is historic memory which makes the difference between combining experience, knowledge and ambition into an amalgam for a thrust forward and Liberalism which is also moving forward, but off the cuff sort of. Senator Goldwater also says:

"The root difference between the Conservatives and the Liberals of today is that Conservatives take account of the whole man, while the Liberals tend to look only at the material side of man's nature . . ."

This is not necessarily true. It is a kind of Conservative bigotry to believe this, just as the Liberals assume that Conservatives are all fat capitalists, which is far from true. One can be spiritually rich, as Norman Thomas or Reinhold Niebuhr is, and be a Liberal but the essential difference is in the nature of the thrust forward. For neither the Conservative nor the Liberal believes in the status quo and neither of them really seeks to return to whatever were the "good old days."

The Conservative believes that progress must be within the margins of history which deals with the movements of man through the centuries. He recognizes that in this movement forward errors have been made. The Conservative does not have a vested interest in those errors.

He seeks to rebuild society constantly but he holds firm to its foundations.

Barry Goldwater's book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," is too short an essay to be satisfying but the startling fact is that it was written at all and that a United States Senator issued it in these times.

There is undoubtedly a Conservative trend in this country. It is more pronounced among younger people than among their parents who were influenced by the circumstances of the 1930's. The younger people, in this period of scientific discovery and absorption with philosophic concepts, are less concerned with politics and political institutions than their parents were. Science and psychology have caught their eye.

This is generally referred to as apathy and, it must be admitted, that compared with other campaigns, the 1960 one, thus far, is dull. There is this about television: while for the candidate, it may be a convenience because he talks to a large audience at once, the personal touch is lost. He is another actor on the stage. He is often interviewed by dully polite interrogators who most often ask absurd questions which evoke neither sharp repartee nor keen observation. The warmness of the crowd is gone. The shouting and yelling, the blaring band, the enthusiasm of faction—all disappear on television. What is left is just a man talking—and one turns to a murder.

This apathy the students of politics deplore. But there was no apathy when Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke over radio. I disliked Roosevelt but listened. No matter whether his speech was written by Samuel Rosenman or Robert Sherwood or by Roosevelt or by a team, it always was something to get excited about. It is preferable in our kind of a country to be angry at a public figure than to feel that "Wagon Train" is more important.

This apathy is not due to Conservatism. It is due to dullness, to lack of issues, to political confusion. For instance, Adlai Stevenson says that he is not a candidate; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says that he is a candidate. Oh dear! Oh dear! Why don't the Liberals make up their minds. And Mrs. Roosevelt's idea of having a Stevenson-Kennedy ticket is really something to put a damper on the Democratic Convention. Why not a Kennedy-Stevenson ticket or would Jack prefer to run with a Conservative to make sure?

Burning A Hole In His Pocket

Eichmann, Clever At Killing Jews, Forgot To Cover His Own Tracks

By Drew Pearson

NEW YORK — Tuvia Friedmann, who escaped from a Nazi concentration camp to spend 16 years tracking down the Nazi in charge of those camps, was not willing to disclose to me the final details of Adolf Eichmann's capture in Argentina. He explained that relations between Argentina and Israel were too delicate at the moment and the story of Eichmann's capture would have to come later.

I learned, however, that certain Argentine officials definitely cooperated in removing Eichmann from Argentina despite the Argentine government's current protests. In Latin-American diplomatic circles it's strongly suspected that these protests were inspired by the present Argentine political crisis and the desire of the Frondizi government to curry favor with the military clique which has always been close to the Nazis.

From Friedmann I got one hint as to how the man who masterminded the murder of 6,000,000 Jews was finally tracked down.

"Eichmann was a fiendishly clever man about everything except one point—protection to himself. When he set up the concentration camps in Poland for the murder of the Jewish people he neglected no detail. He even had gravel sprinkled around the railroad stations after each trainload of Jews was unloaded so the next trainload would see no traces of those who had come before. Everything was arranged with the German passion for cleanliness and efficiency. Most of the Jews were told they were being brought to a place where they could get a new start in life. Even quaint Polish chalets were built near the concentration camp railroad stations to carry out the appearance of rustic rural peace.

"But," continued Friedman, "when Eichmann fled to Argentina he neglected one thing about himself. He had four sons and he neglected to induce them to change their names. Some of them lived near him outside Buenos Aires. It is not true, as reported by some newspapers, that they thought he was their uncle."

Worry Over USA

Continuing his recital of the facts which demanded that Eichmann be captured and face trial, Friedmann reviewed the details—which some people have forgotten—of the most gruesome mass murder in all history.

"Up until the time the United States entered the war," he explained, "Hitler's government was worried about inflaming American public opinion by too drastic treatment of the Jews thereby dragging the United States into war.

"But about the time it became evident the United States would come in, it was decided that the confinement of Jews in concentration camps was too expensive and they must be killed.

"However, this presented some problems. First it presented engineering problems. Not enough bullets could be spared by the army to kill 6,000,000 civilians, so Eichmann was given the job of finding a solution. He came up with gas.

"Second, there was the problem of finding personnel tough enough to murder people, to withstand the screams of little children and the wailing of old people.

"So Eichmann set up a training program to make men hard-boiled enough to kill defenseless unarmed civilians. A soldier would be given a dog as a pet and after he had become fond of the dog he would be ordered to kill it. If he graduated from this without emotion he could qualify for the liquidation camps.

"In one case two officers were buddies. One of them let a prisoner escape. So his friend was required to shoot the officer who, accidentally or otherwise, had let the prisoner flee. This kind of training toughened camp personnel to a point where they were equal to any brutality.

Haughty Officer To Worm

"Then there was another problem," continued the man who tracked down the executive in command of these camps. "It was the problem of killing quietly. The German government didn't want the world to know—not even the German people. It was afraid of public opinion.

"So all around the concentration camps were signs warning that any unauthorized person who approached would be killed without challenge.

"The first execution by gas took place in November 1941 near Riga when 50 Jews were placed in a hermetically sealed bus and driven through the streets until they were dead. This had two disadvantages, however. First, it cost gasoline. Second, the local people found out about it.

"So in late November orders were sent that Eichmann was to visit Rudolf F. Hoess, commander of Auschwitz, and teach him how to build gas crematoriums which could handle 200 Jews every 15 minutes. This stepped up the gassing rate to 15,000 Jews in Auschwitz alone. And there were six of these murder camps in Poland.

"Eichmann was the SS man who masterminded this. Is is any wonder that my government is determined to try him? He will be given a completely fair trial, but he must be tried."

"What has Eichmann been like since he left Germany?" I asked.

"He has been like a worm. When you take the Fuehrer away, when you remove the uniform, these Nazis are finished. They are like oxen. When you say 'go' they go. When you say 'stand' they stand. They have no human dignity.

"Eichmann was a big shot. Officers quivered at the sound of his voice. He had the power of life and death over millions of people. But then he became a worm, living in a hole in the ground, knowing that this little man Tuvia Friedmann was after him."

Rockefeller Interview Displays His Idealism

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — After listening and watching for two hours on Sunday night a television program in which Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York answered all kinds of provocative questions this writer is convinced of the sincerity, earnestness and high purpose of the man who startled the country last week by his challenge to Vice President Nixon.

Granted that it's "too late" for the Republicans to nominate anybody but the Vice President — and, indeed, judged by political standards, Mr. Nixon is the man they are in duty bound to choose —the fact remains that Governor Rockefeller unwittingly made a good argument for some other system of choosing party nominees and making party policy than the one in vogue.

In fact, Governor Rockefeller was advancing a theory which constituted the most significant aspect of his television talk. For, when all pretense and hypocrisy are thrust aside, it must be conceded that the present system of forming party policy or selecting the best candidate needs revision. Indeed, the whole structure of government has grown so large that in many of the answers that Governor Rockefeller made he reflected to some extent the impatience of the public with political habits as they relate to government in these days of crisis.

What Governor Rockefeller was trying to say, in effect, was that he favors support not for who is right but for what is right. But it is political heresy today to say that anything the opposite party stands for is right, just as it is unorthodox to say that one's own candidate may be wrong on particular issues. The tradition is that before a national convention there can be rival candidates expressing different views, but that, once a candidate is chosen, the party members must rally behind him.

Governor Rockefeller is ready to support Vice President Nixon after his nomination, but he thinks that between now and convention time policies can be shaped with respect to the future, and then a united party can go before the electorate. This, of course, is not a practical viewpoint. What Mr. Rockefeller is doing today, he might better have done six months ago. But since he has apparently cast aside consideration of any effects his one-man crusade may have on his own political future, the New York Governor is of the opinion that a debate on the issues and a clarification of the Republican position before the convention would help Mr. Nixon to win. Much of the criticism directed toward the administration, however, arises from changes in the circumstances of world affairs themselves. Neither Mr. Nixon nor President Eisenhower can be held responsible for the changed situation resulting from Nikita Khrushchev's erratic behavior. Hindsight is always better than foresight.

Judged abstractly, Governor Rockefeller is fighting in a good cause — for a different way of making party policy and choosing candidates. But, as has often been said, "It's a condition and not a theory" that confronts the Republican Party today. One factor is the manner in which the opposition party naturally takes advantage of any dissension.

Perhaps the real trouble is that the vast majority of the voters do not analyze the issues critically, anyway, and that generalities do influence elections — as, for instance, economic contentment or discontent, as well as the possible impact of war or international policies designed to deter the enemy from attacking.

Governor Rockefeller's earnestness, his forthrightness, his modesty, his simple honesty are all refreshing characteristics, but somehow one gets the impression that, due to misguided advisers, he is moving in unfamiliar waters — among the shoals of practical politics.

On specific issues, it was interesting to see how skillfully Mr. Rockefeller presented his views. He didn't let his interrogator, David Susskind, who conducts on WNTA the program known as "Open End," to catch him up in any way. Again and again, Mr. Rockefeller restated a question so as to eliminate any misleading phrases. His mastery of that kind of thing was outstanding.

His respectful way of referring to Mr. Nixon and an insistence by the New York Governor that he is trying not to hurt but to improve his party's chances made a deep impression on many who heard the talk.

It seems too bad that Governor Rockefeller has not had as yet the political experience necessary to achieve the worthy objectives he is trying to express today. But he is learning fast. He is endowed with the common sense and integrity of an Eisenhower. If the New York Governor is willing to give the time and energy to remake his own party in the image of prudent progressivism that he has in mind, he can perform in the next decade a useful service. Like many "liberals," he reaches out for goals designed to improve the welfare of the American people. But he hasn't learned yet that in government, as in politics, the art of adjustment is paramount and that what is "possible" to do in legislation or public policy often has to be accepted by those in public office, whereas only those on the outside can continue to argue for something better.

Several things are clear. Governor Rockefeller is not a radical but, at heart, a conservative. He is not fooled by Communist intrigue and is alert to the Communist menace inside and outside America. He is for a balanced federal budget, but he has the temerity to ask that the money be spent for things essential to our defense. Unhappily, such an ideal has to run up against the practical — the votes in Congress for measures on the domestic side. The pressures upon government become the pressures on party. This may be an unsatisfactory system, but it's the way that big government, trying to handle the affairs of nearly 180,000,000 people, does manage to operate these days.

LATE SPRING — It's an ill wind that doesn't blow good for somebody. The long, chilly spring in the east, midwest, and parts of the south, proved a boon to fuel oil dealers.

A study of the now-ending marketing season shows that east of the Rockies it was 2.9 per cent colder than normal. As a result business held up well in the oil-sales game. And, according to industry sources, it came at a good time.

The oil industry generally has been suffering from overproduction in recent years—since the 1956 difficulty over use of the Suez canal has cleared up. The industry has been laboring under poor earnings and fighting for markets in a world of more but shrinking autos and increasing use of gas as a home-heating source.

Notwithstanding the growing popularity of gas, however, oil burner installations in 1959 increased 12 per cent, and the growth trend is continuing this year.

The weather picture by regions: East coast was 0.9 per cent colder than normal; the midwest was 7.6 per cent colder.

The World Of A.D. 2000

The world will change more in the next forty years than it has in the past four hundred. The changes will be so unique, so violent, that I spent considerable time in Washington and with the United Nations in New York researching the matter. This is what it will be like:

A big ship will sail sedately out of New York harbor. Aboard will be 3,000 passengers. After the liner drops the pilot, the captain will signal the chief engineer to cut in the water jet engines. These will bring sea water in through the front of the liner, and pass it out at high speed in the stern mixed with steam.

The ship will move faster and faster and gradually it will come up out of the sea on big sled runners. It will average 94 miles per hour, and will slow down and settle back into the sea off Cherbourg in 35 hours. The hydrofoil ship will have nuclear engines, of course, and high acceleration engines will be attached to the sled runners.

Air travel will be close to the ultimate. Every city will be exactly one hour from all other big cities. A sub-sonic jet will take passengers from New York to Washington in one hour. A Mach 2 jet will take passengers from New York to Chicago in one hour. A Mach 4 jet will fly from New York to San Francisco in one hour. A rocket ship will blast off an inclined ramp in New York, and coast onto a huge trampoline in Tokyo one hour later.

Rocket ships will use sled runners too. They will be retractable. So will the stubby wing-brakes fore and aft. Coming in for a landing, a rocket ship will sprout its curving cellaphanous wings, and look like a dragon fly as it settles on a metal landing strip eight miles long.

Helicars will roam the highways. They will run along the local roads at no greater speed than now, but when they reach the big highways they will run down service roads at high speed, and take off like baby helicopters. When they approach their destination, the approaches will be clearly marked by rows of colored lights, low-flying traffic will follow a pattern, and the helicars will land, fold their rotors, and start into town as automobiles.

Houses will move on a circular axis. Each one will have an antenna with a photo-electric cell inside. The cell will sense daylight, whether dawn is cloudy or clear. The house will turn to meet it, to absorb the heat and, in warm weather, to store it in heat-conductive metal foil inside the roof.

All windows will be double-plated and will have no sash, no means of opening them. Across the windows will be tiny lines, hundreds of them. By turning a thumb screw at the window, the two plates of glass will move a few thousandths of an inch vertically. The black lines will part company and, by being askew, will darken the room without shades or drapes.

Breakfast will be eaten in bed. The photo-electric cell will start all sorts of time devices going in the house. If breakfast is wanted two hours and 30 minutes after sunrise, you will be awakened by the smell of bacon and eggs in a cabinet beside the bed. The coffee will be ready, too. The toast will gleam with poly-unsaturated butter.

Throughout the house, taped music will play softly to start the new day. The upper halves of beds will move automatically so that sleepy-heads will be sitting. At a touch of a button, the walls will light up in whatever color suits the mood of the day. These will be pastels, and can be mixed to the desired shade.

One wall of the living room, when not in color use, will be a television screen. There will be 35 channels. Some will be news stations, depicting local news for 15 minutes, national news next, international news—direct from overseas by reflecting space stations—and, the final 15 minutes of each hour, feature news. Other channels will specialize in music; some will devote their time to women and the home; one will run new motion pictures; classroom education and teen problems will have their own channel; two or three will present live entertainment and drama.

There will be no motion picture houses, of course. Hollywood will get rich leasing its new films to television. Imagine Charlie Chan in color! . . .

Health And Sanitation In 'Mobile Homes'

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

"Is living in a trailer camp healthy?" This question was posed by a friend as we were driving by a rather dismal looking group of mobile homes on the outskirts of town. "It doesn't look sanitary to me. What do they do when sick, and where do the children go to school?"

This particular park looked messy but the majority are neat and well supervised. In many states there are minimum requirements for sewage and water systems, electric power, paved or graded streets, parking areas, laundry facilities, land drainage, garbage and rubbish collection, and toilet and shower facilities.

The operator of the trailer camp is subject to local laws, taxes, ordinances, rent controls, and periodic inspection by fire and health officials. The landlords, like owners of permanent structures, can do as little and as much as they like to meet the required rules.

Most trailers are equipped with chemical or grinder type flush toilets. Many parks require one drain connection but a sanitation problem may arise when there are two—one for the kitchen and bath waste and the other for sewage. Buckets or other devices may be needed to service the other drain. But in larger trailer communities, complete facilities are available to accommodate all types of mobile homes.

A British survey found that the health of trailerites was neither better nor worse than that of stationary dwellers. The report stated that caravans, as the English call trailers, may not be the best place to rear children but the youngsters play out of doors more than do other children. In this makeshift type of "frontier life" they say condensation is a problem (as it is in some yachts) and there is risk of fire. Not all the inhabitants have easy access to bathing or laundry facilities.

In this country, agricultural and skilled migrant workers find mobile homes easier and cheaper to utilize than living temporarily in boarding houses or renting a new house every six to nine months. The trailer population is estimated at close to 4 million.

A Radcliffe freshman read that one could absorb knowledge from a book by putting it under the pillow and sleeping on it all night. She tried it and was asked by her roommate in the morning, "Well, did you get anything out of sleeping on that book?"

"I sure did," admitted the frosh. "A stiff neck!"

The biggest howl heard west of Chicago in many months came from a justifiably engraged Montana housewife who discovered that the "swimming pool" she won in a TV contest was nothing more than a 69-cent fish bowl! She's taking the sponsor-owner of a furniture emporium to court — and if there's any justice she should collect plenty!

A farmer collared a veterinarian at the corner store and tried to snaggle a bit of free advice. "I've got a funny kind of horse," he explained. "Sometimes he walks normal, other times he has a bad limp. What should I do?" The vet snapped, "The next time he walks normal, sell him."

Year Of Mourning For Baltic States

Twenty years of independence—followed by 20 years of rule by Communist Russia which, in violation of solemn treaties, occupied their lands and forced them into the Soviet Union.

That, in briefest terms, is the history of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania in the years that have passed since 1920 when they were given national identities under the treaty of Versailles.

The invasion of these three countries in June 1940 stands as one of the great crimes of history. In 1932 they had entered into non-aggression pacts with the Soviet Union. But the end came swiftly eight years later on the heels of a sudden ultimatum. Two months more and the three nations were formally declared part of Russia.

Available information says that by 1955 a total of 90,000 Estonians had been sent to Siberia. Ten years ago 290,000 Latvians had been deported from their homeland. And in 1952 Lithuanians had counted 350,000 deported and 25,000 killed.

But the spirit of these people, whose struggles for national existence dates back to the Middle Ages, has not been broken by two decades of Soviet misrule. Refugees still reach free soil and report that the old indomitable fire still burns strongly.

In the United States a year of mourning has just been started by the American Baltic Commemorative Committee under the honorary chairmanship of Herbert Hoover. The purpose is to "make these brave people realize that their friends in the free world have not forgotten them."

The crime that struck down Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania was the initial step in the march that has brought the Communist threat so close to the West today. No final accord with the Russian government should fail to right the wrong that was visited upon the proud, free peoples of these Baltic countries.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Barry Goldwater

Senator Barry Goldwater comes from a small state, Arizona. He made his mark in the Senate immediately and has grown in stature rapidly because he has a philosophic turn of mind and can speak in broader terms than mere partisan politics.

He is a Conservative. But he does not deal with Conservatism as some ancient shibboleth but rather as a normal, American concept of life based on historic memory. In his book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," he writes:

"Surely the first obligation of a political thinker is to understand the nature of man. The Conservative does not claim special powers of perception on this point, but he does claim a familiarity with the accumulated wisdom and experience of history, and he is not too proud to learn from the great minds of the past."

It is historic memory which makes the difference between combining experience, knowledge and ambition into an amalgam for a thrust forward and Liberalism which is also moving forward, but off the cuff sort of. Senator Goldwater also says:

"The root difference between the Conservatives and the Liberals of today is that Conservatives take account of the whole man, while the Liberals tend to look only at the material side of man's nature . . ."

This is not necessarily true. It is a kind of Conservative bigotry to believe this, just as the Liberals assume that Conservatives are all fat capitalists, which is far from true. One can be spiritually rich, as Norman Thomas or Reinhold Niebuhr is, and be a Liberal but the essential difference is in the nature of the thrust forward. For neither the Conservative nor the Liberal believes in the status quo and neither of them really seeks to return to whatever were the "good old days."

The Conservative believes that progress must be within the margins of history which deals with the movements of man through the centuries. He recognizes that in this movement forward errors have been made. The Conservative does not have a vested interest in those errors.

He seeks to rebuild society constantly but he holds firm to its foundations.

Barry Goldwater's book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," is too short an essay to be satisfying but the startling fact is that it was written at all and that a United States Senator issued it in these times.

There is undoubtedly a Conservative trend in this country. It is more pronounced among younger people than among their parents who were influenced by the circumstances of the 1930's. The younger people, in this period of scientific discovery and absorption with philosophic concepts, are less concerned with politics and political institutions than their parents were. Science and psychology have caught their eye.

This is generally referred to as apathy and, it must be admitted, that compared with other campaigns, the 1960 one, thus far, is dull. There is this about television: while for the candidate, it may be a convenience because he talks to a large audience at once, the personal touch is lost. He is another actor on the stage. He is often interviewed by dully polite interrogators who most often ask absurd questions which evoke neither sharp repartee nor keen observation. The warmness of the crowd is gone. The shouting and yelling, the blaring band, the enthusiasm of faction—all disappear on television. What is left is just a man talking—and one turns to a murder.

This apathy the students of politics deplore. But there was no apathy when Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke over radio. I disliked Roosevelt but listened. No matter whether his speech was written by Samuel Rosenman or Robert Sherwood or by Roosevelt or by a team, it always was something to get excited about. It is preferable in our kind of a country to be angry at a public figure than to feel that "Wagon Train" is more important.

This apathy is not due to Conservatism. It is due to dullness, to lack of issues, to political confusion. For instance, Adlai Stevenson says that he is not a candidate; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says that he is a candidate. Oh dear! Oh dear! Why don't the Liberals make up their minds. And Mrs. Roosevelt's idea of having a Stevenson-Kennedy ticket is really something to put a damper on the Democratic Convention. Why not a Kennedy-Stevenson ticket or would Jack prefer to run with a Conservative to make sure?

Burning A Hole In His Pocket

Eichmann, Clever At Killing Jews, Forgot To Cover His Own Tracks

By Drew Pearson

NEW YORK — Tuvia Friedmann, who escaped from a Nazi concentration camp to spend 16 years tracking down the Nazi in charge of those camps, was not willing to disclose to me the final details of Adolf Eichmann's capture in Argentina. He explained that relations between Argentina and Israel were too delicate at the moment and the story of Eichmann's capture would have to come later.

I learned, however, that certain Argentine officials definitely cooperated in removing Eichmann from Argentina despite the Argentine government's current protests. In Latin-American diplomatic circles it's strongly suspected that these protests were inspired by the present Argentine political crisis and the desire of the Frondizi government to curry favor with the military clique which has always been close to the Nazis.

From Friedmann I got one hint as to how the man who masterminded the murder of 6,000,000 Jews was finally tracked down.

"Eichmann was a fiendishly clever man about everything except one point—protection to himself. When he set up the concentration camps in Poland for the murder of the Jewish people he neglected no detail. He even had gravel sprinkled around the railroad stations after each trainload of Jews was unloaded so the next trainload would see no traces of those who had come before. Everything was arranged with the German passion for cleanliness and efficiency. Most of the Jews were told they were being brought to a place where they could get a new start in life. Even quaint Polish chalets were built near the concentration camp railroad stations to carry out the appearance of rustic rural peace.

"But," continued Friedman, "when Eichmann fled to Argentina he neglected one thing about himself. He had four sons and he neglected to induce them to change their names. Some of them lived near him outside Buenos Aires. It is not true, as reported by some newspapers, that they thought he was their uncle."

Worry Over USA

Continuing his recital of the facts which demanded that Eichmann be captured and face trial, Friedmann reviewed the details—which some people have forgotten—of the most gruesome mass murder in all history.

"Up until the time the United States entered the war," he explained. "Hitler's government was worried about inflaming American public opinion by too drastic treatment of the Jews thereby dragging the United States into war.

"But about the time it became evident the United States would come in, it was decided that the confinement of Jews in concentration camps was too expensive and they must be killed.

"However, this presented some problems. First it presented engineering problems. Not enough bullets could be spared by the army to kill 6,000,000 civilians, so Eichmann was given the job of finding a solution. He came up with gas.

"Second, there was the problem of finding personnel tough enough to murder people, to withstand the screams of little children and the wailing of old people.

"So Eichmann set up a training program to make men hard-boiled enough to kill defenseless unarmed civilians. A soldier would be given a dog as a pet and after he had become fond of the dog he would be ordered to kill it. If he graduated from this without emotion he could qualify for the liquidation camps.

"In one case two officers were buddies. One of them let a prisoner escape. So his friend was required to shoot the officer who, accidentally or otherwise, had let the prisoner flee. This kind of training toughened camp personnel to a point where they were equal to any brutality.

Haughty Officer To Worm

"Then there was another problem," continued the man who tracked down the executive in command of these camps. "It was the problem of killing quietly. The German government didn't want the world to know—not even the German people. It was afraid of public opinion.

"So all around the concentration camps were signs warning that any unauthorized person who approached would be killed without challenge.

"The first execution by gas took place in November 1941 near Riga when 50 Jews were placed in a hermetically sealed bus and driven through the streets until they were dead. This had two disadvantages, however. First, it cost gasoline. Second, the local people found out about it.

"So in late November orders were sent that Eichmann was to visit Rudolf F. Hoess, commander of Auschwitz, and teach him how to build gas crematoriums which could handle 200 Jews every 15 minutes. This stepped up the gassing rate to 15,000 Jews in Auschwitz alone. And there were six of these murder camps in Poland.

"Eichmann was the SS man who masterminded this. Is is any wonder that my government is determined to try him? He will be given a completely fair trial, but he must be tried."

"What has Eichmann been like since he left Germany?" I asked.

"He has been like a worm. When you take the Fuehrer away, when you remove the uniform, these Nazis are finished. They are like oxen. When you say 'go' they go. When you say 'stand' they stand. They have no human dignity.

"Eichmann was a big shot. Officers quivered at the sound of his voice. He had the power of life and death over millions of people. But then he became a worm, living in a hole in the ground, knowing that this little man Tuvia Friedmann was after him."

Rockefeller Interview Displays His Idealism

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — After listening and watching for two hours on Sunday night a television program in which Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York answered all kinds of provocative questions this writer is convinced of the sincerity, earnestness and high purpose of the man who startled the country last week by his challenge to Vice President Nixon.

Granted that it's "too late" for the Republicans to nominate anybody but the Vice President — and, indeed, judged by political standards, Mr. Nixon is the man they are in duty bound to choose —the fact remains that Governor Rockefeller unwittingly made a good argument for some other system of choosing party nominees and making party policy than the one in vogue.

In fact, Governor Rockefeller was advancing a theory which constituted the most significant aspect of his television talk. For, when all pretense and hypocrisy are thrust aside, it must be conceded that the present system of forming party policy or selecting the best candidate needs revision. Indeed, the whole structure of government has grown so large that in many of the answers that Governor Rockefeller made he reflected to some extent the impatience of the public with political habits as they relate to government in these days of crisis.

What Governor Rockefeller was trying to say, in effect, was that he favors support not for who is right but for what is right. But it is political heresy today to say that anything the opposite party stands for is right, just as it is unorthodox to say that one's own candidate may be wrong on particular issues. The tradition is that before a national convention there can be rival candidates expressing different views, but that, once a candidate is chosen, the party members must rally behind him.

Governor Rockefeller is ready to support Vice President Nixon after his nomination, but he thinks that between now and convention time policies can be shaped with respect to the future, and then a united party can go before the electorate. This, of course, is not a practical viewpoint. What Mr. Rockefeller is doing today, he might better have done six months ago. But since he has apparently cast aside consideration of any effects his one-man crusade may have on his own political future, the New York Governor is of the opinion that a debate on the issues and a clarification of the Republican position before the convention would help Mr. Nixon to win. Much of the criticism directed toward the administration, however, arises from changes in the circumstances of world affairs themselves. Neither Mr. Nixon nor President Eisenhower can be held responsible for the changed situation resulting from Nikita Khrushchev's erratic behavior. Hindsight is always better than foresight.

Judged abstractly, Governor Rockefeller is fighting in a good cause — for a different way of making party policy and choosing candidates. But, as has often been said, "It's a condition and not a theory" that confronts the Republican Party today. One factor is the manner in which the opposition party naturally takes advantage of any dissension.

Perhaps the real trouble is that the vast majority of the voters do not analyze the issues critically, anyway, and that generalities do influence elections — as, for instance, economic contentment or discontent, as well as the possible impact of war or international policies designed to deter the enemy from attacking.

Governor Rockefeller's earnestness, his forthrightness, his modesty, his simple honesty are all refreshing characteristics, but somehow one gets the impression that, due to misguided advisers, he is moving in unfamiliar waters — among the shoals of practical politics.

On specific issues, it was interesting to see how skillfully Mr. Rockefeller presented his views. He didn't let his interrogator, David Susskind, who conducts on WNTA the program known as "Open End," to catch him up in any way. Again and again, Mr. Rockefeller restated a question so as to eliminate any misleading phrases. His mastery of that kind of thing was outstanding.

His respectful way of referring to Mr. Nixon and an insistence by the New York Governor that he is trying not to hurt but to improve his party's chances made a deep impression on many who heard the talk.

It seems too bad that Governor Rockefeller has not had as yet the political experience necessary to achieve the worthy objectives he is trying to express today. But he is learning fast. He is endowed with the common sense and integrity of an Eisenhower. If the New York Governor is willing to give the time and energy to remake his own party in the image of prudent progressivism that he has in mind, he can perform in the next decade a useful service. Like many "liberals," he reaches out for goals designed to improve the welfare of the American people. But he hasn't learned yet that in government, as in politics, the art of adjustment is paramount and that what is "possible" to do in legislation or public policy often has to be accepted by those in public office, whereas only those on the outside can continue to argue for something better.

Several things are clear. Governor Rockefeller is not a radical but, at heart, a conservative. He is not fooled by Communist intrigue and is alert to the Communist menace inside and outside America. He is for a balanced federal budget, but he has the temerity to ask that the money be spent for things essential to our defense. Unhappily, such an ideal has to run up against the practical — the votes in Congress for measures on the domestic side. The pressures upon government become the pressures on party. This may be an unsatisfactory system, but it's the way that big government, trying to handle the affairs of nearly 180,000,000 people, does manage to operate these days.

Inside Washington

LATE SPRING — It's an ill wind that doesn't blow good for somebody. The long, chilly spring in the east, midwest, and parts of the south, proved a boon to fuel oil dealers.

A study of the now-ending marketing season shows that east of the Rockies it was 2.9 per cent colder than normal. As a result business held up well in the oil-sales game. And, according to industry sources, it came at a good time.

The oil industry generally has been suffering from overproduction in recent years—since the 1956 difficulty over use of the Suez canal has cleared up. The industry has been laboring under poor earnings and fighting for markets in a world of more but shrinking autos and increasing use of gas as a home-heating source.

Notwithstanding the growing popularity of gas, however, oil burner installations in 1959 increased 12 per cent, and the growth trend is continuing this year.

The weather picture by regions: East coast was 0.9 per cent colder than normal; the midwest was 7.6 per cent colder.

The World Of A.D. 2000

The world will change more in the next forty years than it has in the past four hundred. The changes will be so unique, so violent, that I spent considerable time in Washington and with the United Nations in New York researching the matter. This is what it will be like:

A big ship will sail sedately out of New York harbor. Aboard will be 3,000 passengers. After the liner drops the pilot, the captain will signal the chief engineer to cut in the water jet engines. These will bring sea water in through the front of the liner, and pass it out at high speed in the stern mixed with steam.

The ship will move faster and faster and gradually it will come up out of the sea on big sled runners. It will average 94 miles per hour, and will slow down and settle back into the sea off Cherbourg in 35 hours. The hydrofoil ship will have nuclear engines, of course, and high acceleration engines will be attached to the sled runners.

Air travel will be close to the ultimate. Every city will be exactly one hour from all other big cities. A sub-sonic jet will take passengers from New York to Washington in one hour. A Mach 2 jet will take passengers from New York to Chicago in one hour. A Mach 4 jet will fly from New York to San Francisco in one hour. A rocket ship will blast off an inclined ramp in New York, and coast onto a huge trampoline in Tokyo one hour later.

Rocket ships will use sled runners too. They will be retractable. So will the stubby wing-brakes fore and aft. Coming in for a landing, a rocket ship will sprout its curving cellaphanous wings, and look like a dragon fly as it settles on a metal landing strip eight miles long.

Helicars will roam the highways. They will run along the local roads at no greater speed than now, but when they reach the big highways they will run down service roads at high speed, and take off like baby helicopters. When they approach their destination, the approaches will be clearly marked by rows of colored lights, low-flying traffic will follow a pattern, and the helicars will land, fold their rotors, and start into town as automobiles.

Houses will move on a circular axis. Each one will have an antenna with a photo-electric cell inside. The cell will sense daylight, whether dawn is cloudy or clear. The house will turn to meet it, to absorb the heat and, in warm weather, to store it in heat-conductive metal foil inside the roof.

All windows will be double-plated and will have no sash, no means of opening them. Across the windows will be tiny lines, hundreds of them. By turning a thumb screw at the window, the two plates of glass will move a few thousandths of an inch vertically. The black lines will part company and, by being askew, will darken the room without shades or drapes.

Breakfast will be eaten in bed. The photo-electric cell will start all sorts of time devices going in the house. If breakfast is wanted two hours and 30 minutes after sunrise, you will be awakened by the smell of bacon and eggs in a cabinet beside the bed. The coffee will be ready, too. The toast will gleam with poly-unsaturated butter.

Throughout the house, taped music will play softly to start the new day. The upper halves of beds will move automatically so that sleepy-heads will be sitting. Stocks Receive Fourth Setback In Five Sessions

Prices firmed at the opening but turned around shortly after the first hour to bring losses of around a point or more in some of the pivotals.

Brokers said last week's sharp runup caused many traders and investors to move to the sidelines pending some consolidation of prices and the forming of a new base.

Autos were lower on balance reflecting news that auto production is expected to drop slightly from the level of a week ago. Chrysler lost 1⅝, Mack Trucks 1⅛, Ford ¾ General Motors ½ and American Motors ¼.

Chemicals, leaders of last week's sharp advance, continued to fall under pressure. Losses here ran to 3 ¼ in Eastman Kodak, 2 in DuPont and Union Carbide and 1¼ in United Carbon.

Industrial stocks slipped 1.15 in their average to 648.27 and the rails 0.81 to 143.34 in theirs.

Stocks Receive Fourth Setback In Five Sessions

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks suffered their fourth setback in five sessions Thursday, as sellers continued to chip away at the gains scored the week before.

Prices firmed at the opening but turned around shortly after the first hour to bring losses of around a point or more in some of the pivotals.

Brokers said last week's sharp runup caused many traders and investors to move to the sidelines pending some consolidation of prices and the forming of a new base.

Autos were lower on balance reflecting news that auto production is expected to drop slightly from the level of a week ago. Chrysler lost 1⅜, Mack Trucks 1⅛, Ford ¾ General Motors ½ and American Motors ¼.

Chemicals, leaders of last week's sharp advance, continued to fall under pressure. Losses here ran to 3 ¼ in Eastman Kodak, 2 in DuPont and Union Carbide and 1¼ in United Carbon.

Industrial stocks slipped 1.15 in their average to 648.27 and the rails 0.81 to 143.34 in theirs.

Cheese Souffle

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ lb (2 cups) process cheese, chopped or coarsely shredded
¼ teaspoon ground pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
Dash of cayenne
6 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon salt

Set ungreased round 2-quart casserole in pan of hot water, at least 1 inch deep, and place in slow oven (325° F). Melt butter or margarine, add flour, blend well and cook over low heat until bubbly. Add milk all at once and cook stirring constantly until uniformly thickened. Add cheese and stir until blended. Add pepper, mustard, cayenne and sauce to egg yolks, beating constantly. Set aside while beating egg whites. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Fold yolk mixture gradually into egg whites, gently but thoroughly. Pour into heated casserole. For an attractive appearance ("top hat") cut into souffle mixture with a spoon about 1 inch from side of casserole and about 1 inch deep, completely circling the mixture. Bake until puffy, delicately browned, and a knife inserted halfway between the center and outside edge comes out clean, about 1½ hours. Makes 5 servings.

VARIATIONS OF CHEESE SOUFFLE: For the variations of cheese souffle, use the same ingredients and method given in recipe, changing each as indicated below.

CHICKEN SOUFFLE. Omit cheese. Stir 2 cups ground or finely chopped cooked chicken and ¼ cup minced onion into hot sauce. Increase seasonings as needed. If desired, serve with chicken gravy or mushroom sauce. Makes 6 servings.

CARROT OR SPINACH SOUFFLE: Omit cheese and dry mustard. Stir 2 cups grated raw carrot or finely chopped raw spinach, ¼ cup minced onion and 1½ teaspoons salt into hot sauce. If desired, serve with cheese, parsley or tomato sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Fried Asparagus Tehran

2 pounds of asparagus (about 40 stalks)
1 teaspoon of salt
6 six-section saltines, rolled
2 eggs, beaten
olive oil or other liquid shortening
1 medium onion, sliced thin
1 cup of yoghurt (sour cream, if preferred)
2 to 3 drops of garlic juice, or small clove of garlic, finely minced

Trim asparagus and boil stalks in salted water until they are barely tender. Then dip asparagus in egg and roll in saltine crumbs. Saute in olive oil until the stalks turn light brown. Then arrange on serving platter in bundles and circle each bundle with a raw onion ring. Combine and blend the garlic juice with yoghurt and serve as a sauce for the asparagus. Yield: six to eight generous servings.

Opening lead: Jack of ♥

The gambit of a most unusual type is observed in the defense of the hand shown today, in that three tricks are deliberately conceded to the opposition for the purpose of gaining one un[illegible] time. And it proved to be a very sound investment.

The auction was normal in all respects except for West's questionable opening bid.

The opening lead was somewhat of a lucky stab and yet it was based on logic. South's vigorous bidding indicates a great strength in spades and diamonds. It is, therefore, reasonable to expect that he has no special support for hearts. North made no effort to insist upon the major suit so that it cannot be too well reinforced.

East's side values are very likely in hearts, since he made a free bid and from declarer's bidding it can be gathered that East's spade suit itself is not very robust.

West, therefore, led the jack of hearts which was covered by the king and the ace. The seven of diamonds was returned and the ten went to West's queen. The nine of hearts was continued and declarer refused to cover with the ten. Nevertheless, East overtook with the queen, despite the fact that it established three good heart tricks in the dummy. He continued with the six of diamonds and declarer was now helpless. The diamonds were now established and declarer could do no better than run with his eight tricks.

Had East practiced false economy and permitted the nine of hearts to hold, the diamonds could not have been established. The ace of clubs would have been extracted from the West hand, permitting declarer to establish nine tricks.

Baked Alaska Pie

1 baked 9-inch pie shell
1 quart ice cream (any flavor)
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar

Cool baked pie shell and chill in refrigerator. Fill with ice cream. Cover top of pie clear to edge of crust with meringue. Wrap in freezer paper and freeze.

To make meringue, beat egg whites until they stand in moist drooping peaks when beater is raised. Slowly add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat until stiff and glossy. To serve: Preheat oven to 500 degrees. Remove Alaska Pie from freezer, unwrap and bake 2 to 3 minutes until lightly browned. Serve at once.

Baked Potato With Cheese Sauce

6 baking potatoes
1 package (8 ozs.) cream cheese room temperature
½ cup light cream
1 tablespoon snipped chives
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon garlic salt

Scrub potatoes and wrap in foil. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 40 to 60 minutes. Blend cheese with remaining ingredients. When potatoes are done, roll gently to soften center but be careful not to break skin. Unwrap foil and cut a cross on top of each potato. Press against ends and push up to fluff top of potato. Top opening with cheese mixture and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

1 (1-lb.) can jellied cranberry sauce
3 cups bread cubes
1½ cups milk

Fresh Strawberry Fluff

(4 servings)

- 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatine
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 2 egg whites
- ½ teaspoon sugar substitute
- 1 tablespoon brandy
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 cup mashed strawberries

1. Soften gelatine in cold water; then dissolve over hot water.
2. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft peaks; add sugar substitute, brandy, and lemon juice. Beat until very stiff; add the dissolved gelatine while beating.
3. Let egg white mixture stand in refrigerator about 5 minutes.
4. Fold mashed strawberries into egg white mixture.

- ¼ cup lemon juice
- Freshly ground pepper
- ¼ cup grated white onion
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup commercial sour cream
- 1 cup unpeeled shredded cucumber

Dissolve gelatin in water and add lemon juice. Cool and add remaining ingredients, stirring until sour cream is blended. Pour into fancy mold. When ready to serve, unmold and circle with fresh fruit, tomato wedges or sliced avocado. Serve with whipped cream, sour cream or mayonnaise. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 to 40 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Outdoor Cooking Craze Boosts Charcoal Industry

PARSONS, W. Va.—The recent upsurge in outdoor cooking is being reflected financially in the Valley District. For several months a charcoal burning operation has been conducted by the Kingsford Company of Parsons.

Thousands of cords of hardwood cordwood have been hauled to their site which occupies approximately eight acres. The process used is known as the kiln process whereby wood is placed in the kiln and charred by self-firing. This process usually takes from three to five days after which the charcoal is moved to the Parsons Plant, manufactured into briquets, packaged, and shipped by truck and rail to their eastern markets.

More than one hundred kilns or ovens have been erected and twenty to twenty-five of them are lighted at one time. The doneness of the burning process is tested by thrusting an iron rod through openings in the oven. If the rod can be inserted the full diameter of the oven without hitting solid material, the burning is completed. Then all ventilation is covered over and the fire is allowed to die out. After a cooling period, the hovers are lifted off by a huge derrick, revealing the heap of burned charcoal. Each kiln yields about 1300 pounds of finished charcoal.

Moorefield Blood Bank Hits All Time Low Record

MOOREFIELD—Fifty six pints of blood were donated to the American Red Cross Blood Bank when the mobile unit was at the Moose Home in Moorefield, June 14. In the many years that the Bloodmobile has been coming to Moorefield, this was the smallest amount ever donated.

Eighty-one persons had signified their willingness to give blood but of that number, only 30 presented themselves as donors. Thirty-two walk-ins brought the number to 62, six of whom were rejected for various reasons.

In a breakdown, 41 donors were men and 21, women; fifty-five had given before while seven were first timers. Fifty-four gave Moorefield as their address; two each came from Fisher, Rig and Purgitsville and one each from Rock Oak and Kirby.

Fourteen volunteers gave 70 hours of time. The workers included Mrs. W. J. Teets, Mrs. Ed Baker, Mrs. R. E. Fisher, Mrs. Irvin Bowman, Mrs. A. C. McNeill, Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. William Judy, Mrs. Walter Southerly, Mrs. R. E. Williams, Mrs. Ashby Scea, Mrs. John Harman, Mrs. Reg Saville, Mrs. Jim Tenny, Mrs. Guy Bean and Mrs. Philip Inskeep.

The telephone committee was composed of Mrs. Mona Fugate, Mrs. Ted Sager, Mrs. LaMar Sagar, Mrs. Guy Lang, Mrs. Don Hott, Mrs. Roland Cline, Mrs. Frances Denney, Mrs. Don Smith, Mrs. Elwood Williams, Mrs. Harry Welton, Mrs. W. Westernport Council Adopts One-Way Plan

Riordan Road To Be Improved

WESTERNPORT—For a 30-day trial period Philos Avenue will be a one-way thoroughfare from Main Street to Howard Street and Gordon from Howard to Potomac. All of Potomac, and part of Smoot and Clay streets will be also one-way street in the Oakview area.

Traffic from Oakview and Greene's Addition to down town will use Howard Street to Gordon.

It was decided at the regular meeting of the town council with Mayor Ray L. Wilt presiding, that this change be placed in operation on July 1.

Joseph Taylor was the spokesman for a delegation complaining of the dust on Division Street between Walnut and Spruce Street. They were informed that temporary relief would be given.

A number of citizens of Riordan Road, for whom Richard Stephenson was spokesman, asked that their street be improved. They were told blacktop would be added a distance extending a part which is already done. They also asked some high grass be cut. Town officials indicate the grass is on private property and it is the duty of property owners to cut the grass on their own property. Stephenson also stated a fire plug is needed in that area.

Robert Kalbaugh, water commissioner, reported that Dr. Raymond W. Reeves requests a fire plug in front of a vacant lot of his be moved. Council decided when a water line is run from Oakview Drive to Philos Avenue the fire plug would be placed on the other side of Main Street.

Alvin Pence, police commissioner, stated that Clyde Davis, Main Street, requested a parking meter be removed in front of his property so he could better get his car in his garage. It will be investigated.

W.Va. Adopts New Auto Stickers

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — West Virginia motor vehicles inspected during the 1960-61 fiscal year beginning July 1 will sport a new red, green and white sticker.

The State Police Motor Vehicle Inspection Bureau said the new sticker will make it easier for a car owner to determine when his vehicle becomes due to its annual inspection.

The new sticker will carry the date on which the 1960-61 inspection expires, the Bureau said. Current stickers show only a punch mark in the 1959-60 month when the car was last inspected.

Cars due for inspection this month will recieve the old gold and blue sticker and the new one in 1961.

Rare Collection Of Political Campaign Buttons

FSTC English Instructor Reveals Interesting Hobby

FROSTBURG—Not many people would be willing to admit that they "have not got all their buttons," but not this Hoosier educator from Indiana University.

Engaged in the unusual pastime of collecting political campaign buttons, Miss June Eastman, English instructor at Frostburg State Teachers College, with over 1,000 buttons (some duplicates), is still seeking more—especially the pre-Civil War variety.

Intrigued by an old McKinley button which she found in her aunt's home (the late Mrs. Gilbert Bush, Jeffersonville, Ohio) and, a little later, by the teaching of a unit on political conventions, Miss Eastman began "button collecting" as a hobby. Since 1952 when she took her first campaign button to school, she has found the hobby a fascinating one. Students, friends, and other collectors have been the sources of most of her "finds."

Her oldest button is from the second campaign of President Grant in 1872, one which she obtained from another collector. The rarest, perhaps, is a picture button from the first campaign of Socialist Eugene V. Debs in 1900, showing Debs and Harriman. She also boasts a 1904 convention button.

Quite interesting are her third party souvenirs, including those of the Communist, the Bull Moose, the Dixiecrat, the Henry Wallace Progressive, the States' Right, the America First and the Prohibition parties. "Bread, not Booze, VOTE Dry" is the slogan on the Prohibition button.

Miss Eastman's largest single collection is from the Willkie campaign. Born in Sharpsville, Ind., only ten miles from Willkie's home town, she made a special collection of his campaign buttons.

A political artifact of every president from Grant to Eisenhower, except those of Harrison and Hayes, are included in June's collection. Her latest acquisition is a pewter headed cane of William McKinley, a gift of one of her sophomore students, Francis Travis. Her collection also includes stickers, pens, pennants and walking sticks.

June has found that 125 other people are as interested as she is in this hobby and they have formed a nationwide organization called the American Political Items Collectors. They meet usually during convention year in the city where one of the national conventions is being held. One of their members who has a very complete collection of campaign buttons was sent by the U.S. Department of State to the World's Fair at Brussels to display his hobby because this means of "vote getting" is typically an American custom.

When asked what is the reward of such a hobby, other than completeness of the collection, June replied, "It's the joy of the hunt."

Library Planned At Corriganville

The library will be opened from 1 to 2:30 p. m. each Wednesday, from June 15 until August 24. Membership cards may be purchased any Wednesday.

There are about 800 adult, juvenile, elementary and pre-school books for use this year. The families in town helped to buy many of these books, according to Miss Alma Logsdon, principal of the school.

Mrs. Melvin Emerick is chairman of the library project and all librarians are volunteer workers from the PTA. The back door of the school will be used as the entrance to the library again this summer.

New Corning Glass Works Will Begin Production

MARTINSBURG, W. Va.—Initial production is expected to begin next month at the multi-million dollar Corning Glass Works plant near here. The glass tank was fired on April 25 and production facilities are presently undergoing a final "shakedown."

Construction work began on the Corning plant in mid-October, 1959, almost immediately after the company's announcement that the manufacturing plant would be located in that area. It is located on a 60-acre tract along U. S. Route 11, about four miles south of Martinsburg.

The plant will employ between 400 and 500 persons initially and this figure is expected to be increased within three to five years and possibly again after that.

A part of the Consumer Products Division of Corning Glass, the new plant will manufacture Corning Ware cooking utensils made of Pyroceram, a super strength glass-ceramic developed by Corning scientists.

The Potomac Edison Company is providing electric power to the new Corning Plant, with estimates placed at 18,000,000 kilowatt hours annually. To provide this service PE has spent nearly $225,000 for construction of necessary facilities. A new 34,500 volt line was built from the Opequon Substation to a substation erected at the plant. In addition, the 34,500 volt line from Martinsburg to Redbud Substation near Winchester was tapped as an additional source of power.

Dietician Joins College Staff At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Gail K. Baptist of Sparta, Wis., will join the staff at Frostburg State Teachers College in September as dietician, according to President R. Bowen Hardesty.

Mrs. Baptist has been employed at the Lutheran Hospital School of Nursing, Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1956 as dietician and instructor.

Previously she was on the staff of the University of Iowa General Hospital, Iowa City, from 1952 to 1954 as assistant administrative dietician. She also was employed for one year at Wood (Wis.) Veterans Administration Hospital as assistant therapeutic dietician.

In her last position Mrs. Baptist taught normal nutrition and diet therapy in the classroom, correlated with ward work, and assisted therapeutic dieticians.

Mrs. Baptist attended Rufus King High School, Milwaukee, and majored in foods and home economics at Milwaukee-Downer College, receiving her bachelor of science degree in June 1949. She is registered with the American Dietetic Association.

Army Reserve Members Train At Ft. Meade

Forty-four Cumberland area Army reservists are undergoing two weeks of annual active duty for training at Fort Meade with their home unit, the 265th Ordnance Company.

The reservists began training last June 4 and will complete their training tomorrow.

During the first week of training, the Cumberland men were in the field where they took part in practical exercises in combat formations, battlefield firing positions, small unit defense, day and night patrols and field supply.

The last week of training consists of on-the-job training with their Regular Army counterparts, the Strategic Army Corps' crack First Ordnance Battalion.

This intensified training—most of which could not be accomplished at their home station—brings to a climax the year-long training cycle of the reserve unit.

A land use map is an important part of this master plan for sets off certain areas of the county for residential, industrial, commercial and agricultural uses. Mr. Winer said that in the preparation of this map, the commission will need the services of about 40 representatives of different interests. They would earmark certain areas for industrial sites while aiming to maintain existing residential and agricultural areas with a minimum of encroachment from commercial areas.

In this county planning there also is a need for a master highway plan. Mr. Winer explained that the State Roads Commission has shown a willingness in Frederick County to listen to the planning commission's recommendations because that county has a published master highway plan.

This proposed master plan, which may be two to four years in preparation, also would provide zoning and subdivision regulations. He pointed out that today there are very few restrictions on residential building in the unincorporated areas of the county. The Health Department must approve the septic tank arrangements but there are no restrictions as to the type of dwelling, no required setback from the road and no commercial restrictions.

Orderly growth of the county would protect property values, he said. Planning would provide for sound business areas rather than scattered businesses. Zoning, once it is agreed upon after public hearings, must be enforced to be effective. Zoning also must be revised to fit changing needs within the county.

Ultimately, the County Planning Commission hopes to plan with the people rather than for the people, the chairman concluded.

Buccos Sweep Series With Giants, 10-7

Boost Lead To Four Games; Skinner Hits Grand Slam Homer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Relief ace Elroy Face came off the bench to put out a Giant uprising that scored five runs in the bottom of the ninth inning and save a 10-7 victory for the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

The win, which gave the Pirates a sweep of the three-game series, stretched their National League lead to four games. It was the fourth consecutive setback for the Giants.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, in trouble in every inning, was coasting along on a 10-2 lead going into the bottom of the ninth. The first three men up singled and he was lifted for Face. Orlando Cepeda greeted Face with a single and Willie Kirkland followed with a three-run home run. But Face got the next three batters to retire the side.

Each side collected 15 hits in the slugfest. The Giants got at least one hit in each of the nine innings. But the Pirates bunched theirs more often and in the fifth, when they scored six runs including Bob Skinner's grand slam homer, they got four safeties. They also got four hits in the eighth when they scored three runs on back-to-back triples by Don Hoak and Bill Mazeroski, followed by singles by Dick Groat and Skinner.

Skinner had five runs batted in for the day.

Pittsburgh rattled four Giant hurlers for 15 safeties, including three runs.

Mizell was in trouble in every inning but the Pirate doubleplay combination helped him out twice and the other times he got out of jams by striking out nine batters. The Pirates completed seven double plays during the three game series.

Tigers Sought Mantle, Trade Falls Through

Three Major League Deals Are Completed

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Three major league deals were swung just before the trading deadline but the biggest one of all, involving Mickey Mantle moving to the Tigers, missed fire because "the Yankees backed away from it."

Bill DeWitt, president of the Tigers, admitted in Detroit Thursday that he had tried to get Mantle shortly before Wednesday night's trading deadline.

DeWitt declined to identify the Detroit players he had offered for the switch-hitting, 28 - year - old Yankee slugger, who is currently sidelined with a groin injury, although he said "there were big names involved on our side."

Extend Deadline

Due to the various time differences, Wednesday night's trading deadline was extended from midnight to 2 a.m. e.d.t. and several clubs took advantage of it to complete deals during the early hours of the morning.

In one such trade, the Phillies sent outfielders Wally Post and Harry Anderson to the Reds for outfielders Tony Gonzales and Lee Walls. As a shirt-tail to the deal, Cincinnati also acquired first baseman Fred Hopke, now with Buffalo on option from the Phillies. Hopke will remain with the Bisons, however, for the balance of the season.

The Phillies also sent former Giants' ace Ruben Gomez to Buffalo and recalled Dallas Green, a relief pitcher, from the same club.

Feels He Can Help

The 33-year-old Labine was one of the last survivors of the Dodger dynasty in Brooklyn. As a member of the 1955 world champion Dodgers, Labine had a 13-5 record and although his record this year with them was 0-1, he said, "there's no doubt in my mind whatsoever that I can help Detroit."

The St. Louis Cardinals obtained outfielder Walt Moryn from the Chicago Cubs for a minor league infielder and cash. Jim McKnight, with Memphis on option from the Cards, went to the Cubs in the deal and they promptly assigned him to Houston. Moryn, 34, was batting .294 with the Cubs.

St. Louis also acquired outfielder John Glenn from St. Paul in exchange for Duke Carmel and Jim Donohue from the Rochester Club.

To make room for Moryn and Glenn, the Cards optioned outfielders Leon Wagner and Ellis Burton to Rochester.

Teams Battle To Tie

Darkness yesterday halted the Bi-State Pony Baseball League game at Frostburg between Cresaptown and the Frostburg Mounties with the score knotted at 7-7 in the 8th inning.

The game has been rescheduled for Wednesday, June 22, at 6 p.m., in Frostburg.

By OSCAR FRALEY

DENVER (UPI) —There was thunder in the Rockies Thursday from big Mike Souchak's par-busting efforts and Tommy Bolt's club-busting antics.

So when the first round of the U.S. Open golf championship was over at sun-baked Cherry Hills Country Club:

—Souchak with nine one - putt greens and a three-under par 31-37—68 held a one shot lead over little Jerry Barber and Henry Ransom, the wrinkled veteran from Texas.

—Bolt, withdrawing because of "illness" as he finished with an 80, put two balls and his driver into the lake on the 18th hole and was fined $100 with subsequent punitive action possible.

—And the hopes of the two sentimental favorites — four - time winner Ben Hogan and four-time runnerup Sam Snead — were beclouded despite the bright sunshine as the Slammer shot a 35-37—72 and Bantam Ben soared to 37-38—75.

Palmer Had 72

It was a disheartening beginning, too, for the big man in the field — Arnold Palmer—who was a 4 to 1 choice to win this 60th edition of America's greatest tournament as they played away in the shadows of the snow - capped Rockies. For golf's golden boy from Pennsylvania helped himself to a 36-36—72 before 13,767 spectators, largest first day crowd in Open history.

Boros Had 73

Another former champion, Julius Boros, headed those at 73 who included Lionel Hebert, Claude Harmon and Doug Ford. Behind Hogan and Johnny Bulla at 75, those in the 76 bracket in the field of 150 included highly - regarded Gene Littler, little Paul Runyan and handsome Shelley Mayfield.

Dapper Cards Stop Phils, 11-5; Tigers Top Athletics, 4-3

Prior to yesterday's meeting, the Phillies had won six in a row from the Cardinals over the past two seasons.

Winning their second straight game of the season, the Cards racked up 13 hits, including two doubles by Don Sewell, a double and single each by Ralph Miller and Kenny Green and two singles each by "Klu" Kime and Dick Chaney, who went the route for the victors and fanned eight. Deremer, the second of three Phillies' pitchers, also struck out eight.

Larry Mooney gained the decision over Klinger in a mound duel as the Tigers edged the Athletics at East Side Field by the score of 4-3. Mooney tossed a 4-hitter and fanned nine while Klinger gave up five safeties and whiffed eight.

Richard Aman and Bobby Powell walloped triples, Glenn Cross smacked a two-bagger and Timmy Scaletta excelled at third base for the Tigers. Bobby Boyle homered and tripled and Hedrick starred in centerfield for the Athletics. Scores:

Lausse And Pigou Fight At St. Nick

The bout will be televised over the NBC network starting at 9 p.m. (EST).

Pigou comes highly recommended as a protege of Pierre Langlois. The stocky Frenchman won 20 of 24 fights from 1955 to 1957, when he went in the French army. Returning to the ring in 1959 he was unbeaten in five fights, winning four by knockouts.

Exports Take 6th Straight

Ellerslie Racks Up 5th Victory In Row

Greenpoint Inn's Old Exports, Ellerslie and Wellersburg, running 1-2-3 in the County Softball League race, emerged the winners in games played yesterday.

The Old Exports (13-3) extended their winning streak to six games by blanking Corriganville, 4-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Junior Breisford, who fanned seven, and recorded his 9th win against a single loss. The defeat sent Corriganville below the .500 mark at 7-8.

Ellerslie (11-3) reeled off its fifth consecutive victory at the expense of Stringtown at Ellerslie by the score of 5-1. Vern Lowery tossed a three-hitter and bagged his 8th victory against two losses.

Tigers Sought Mantle, Trade Falls Through

Three Major League Deals Are Completed

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Three major league deals were swung just before the trading deadline but the biggest one of all, involving Mickey Mantle moving to the Tigers, missed fire because "the Yankees backed away from it."

Bill DeWitt, president of the Tigers, admitted in Detroit Thursday that he had tried to get Mantle shortly before Wednesday night's trading deadline.

DeWitt declined to identify the Detroit players he had offered for the switch-hitting, 28 - year - old Yankee slugger, who is currently sidelined with a groin injury, although he said "there were big names involved on our side."

Extend Deadline

Due to the various time differences, Wednesday night's trading deadline was extended from midnight to 2 a.m. e.d.t. and several clubs took advantage of it to complete deals during the early hours of the morning.

In one such trade, the Phillies sent outfielders Wally Post and Harry Anderson to the Reds for outfielders Tony Gonzales and Lee Walls. As a shirt-tail to the deal, Cincinnati also acquired first baseman Fred Hopke, now with Buffalo on option from the Phillies. Hopke will remain with the Bisons, however, for the balance of the season.

The Phillies also sent former Giants' ace Ruben Gomez to Buffalo and recalled Dallas Green, a relief pitcher, from the same club.

Feels He Can Help

The 33-year-old Labine was one of the last survivors of the Dodger dynasty in Brooklyn. As a member of the 1955 world champion Dodgers, Labine had a 13-5 record and although his record this year with them was 0-1, he said, "there's no doubt in my mind whatsoever that I can help Detroit."

The St. Louis Cardinals obtained outfielder Walt Moryn from the Chicago Cubs for a minor league infielder and cash. Jim McKnight, with Memphis on option from the Cards, went to the Cubs in the deal and they promptly assigned him to Houston. Moryn, 34, was batting .294 with the Cubs.

St. Louis also acquired outfielder John Glenn from St. Paul in exchange for Duke Carmel and Jim Donohue from the Rochester Club.

To make room for Moryn and Glenn, the Cards optioned outfielders Leon Wagner and Ellis Burton to Rochester.

Teams Battle To Tie

Darkness yesterday halted the Bi-State Pony Baseball League game at Frostburg between Cresaptown and the Frostburg Mounties with the score knotted at 7-7 in the 8th inning.

The game has been rescheduled for Wednesday, June 22, at 6 p.m., in Frostburg.

Mike Souchak Is Leader In National Open With 68

By OSCAR FRALEY

DENVER (UPI) —There was thunder in the Rockies Thursday from big Mike Souchak's par-busting efforts and Tommy Bolt's club-busting antics.

So when the first round of the U.S. Open golf championship was over at sun-baked Cherry Hills Country Club:

—Souchak with nine one - putt greens and a three-under par 31-37—68 held a one shot lead over little Jerry Barber and Henry Ransom, the wrinkled veteran from Texas.

—Bolt, withdrawing because of "illness" as he finished with an 80, put two balls and his driver into the lake on the 18th hole and was fined $100 with subsequent punitive action possible.

—And the hopes of the two sentimental favorites — four - time winner Ben Hogan and four-time runnerup Sam Snead — were beclouded despite the bright sunshine as the Slammer shot a 35-37—72 and Bantam Ben soared to 37-38—75.

Palmer Had 72

It was a disheartening beginning, too, for the big man in the field — Arnold Palmer—who was a 4 to 1 choice to win this 60th edition of America's greatest tournament as they played away in the shadows of the snow - capped Rockies. For golf's golden boy from Pennsylvania helped himself to a 36-36—72 before 13,767 spectators, largest first day crowd in Open history.

Boros Had 73

Another former champion, Julius Boros, headed those at 73 who included Lionel Hebert, Claude Harmon and Doug Ford. Behind Hogan and Johnny Bulla at 75, those in the 76 bracket in the field of 150 included highly - regarded Gene Littler, little Paul Runyan and handsome Shelley Mayfield.

Dapper Cards Stop Phils, 11-5; Tigers Top Athletics, 4-3

Manager Jim Ellsworth's Cardinals snapped the two-year 11-game winning streak of the Phillies in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League by winning over the 1959 champions yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 11-5.

Prior to yesterday's meeting, the Phillies had won six in a row from the Cardinals over the past two seasons.

Winning their second straight game of the season, the Cards racked up 13 hits, including two doubles by Don Sewell, a double and single each by Ralph Miller and Kenny Green and two singles each by "Klu" Kime and Dick Chaney, who went the route for the victors and fanned eight. Deremer, the second of three Phillies' pitchers, also struck out eight.

Mark Lindner belted a homer, triple and single for the Phils. Nave had two hits and Slocum hit a round-tripper.

Larry Mooney gained the decision over Klinger in a mound duel as the Tigers edged the Athletics at East Side Field by the score of 4-3. Mooney tossed a 4-hitter and fanned nine while Klinger gave up five safeties and whiffed eight.

Richard Aman and Bobby Powell walloped triples, Glenn Cross smacked a two-bagger and Timmy Scaletta excelled at third base for the Tigers. Bobby Boyle homered and tripled and Hedrick starred in centerfield for the Athletics. Scores:

Lausse And Pigou Fight At St. Nick

The bout will be televised over the NBC network starting at 9 p.m. (EST).

Lausse has a 15 bout winning string going for him. His overall record is 79 victories in 91 fights, with 65 kayoes.

Pigou comes highly recommended as a protege of Pierre Langlois. The stocky Frenchman won 20 of 24 fights from 1955 to 1957, when he went in the French army. Returning to the ring in 1959 he was unbeaten in five fights, winning four by knockouts.

BUCS 18-6 AT HOME

The Pirates have an 18-6 record at Forbes Field so far this season. They were 47-30 at home in 1959. Los Angeles is the only club the Pirates have not defeated in Pittsburgh this year.

IT'S A GREAT DAY TO BUY VALIANT

We're bending over backwards right now to make Valiant an even better money-saving proposition than usual. But any day would be a great day to buy Valiant. Because Valiant happens to be a great car. And not just for looks and pinching pennies. Valiant has a hefty inclined engine that whips up 101 hp and nurses gas to boot. A ride that's as great cross-country as it is around town. Plus room for a family of six and their luggage, too (the only place Valiant packs people is into our showrooms!). Yep, Valiant's the one economy car you don't need two of. Unless you just can't decide between a Valiant sedan and a Valiant wagon. So you might want to buy two Valiants. You'll save lots more money—not to mention lots of arguments between the drivers in your family! Come see us, won't you?

Mike Melody Is Winningest Hurler In PVC This Season

Mike Melody of Keyser High School's championship team was the winningest pitcher and also the strikeout king of the Potomac Valley Conference for the 1960 season.

Melody also was among the three pitchers of the circuit who twirled no-run, no-hit games during the campaign. The three no-hitters, incidentally, were all by the same score of 10-0. Melody beat the West Virginia School for the Deaf on April 8, Jerry Wine, of Southern High's undefeated Highlanders, tossed his no-hitter against Bayard on April 28, and Richard Bennett of the Franklin Panthers beat Circleville on April 13.

The Keyser twirler figured in eight of the nine games played by Coach "Tack" Clark's team, posted a record of six wins and one loss and fired the third strike past a total of 46 batters in 30⅔ innings. Runner-up honors in the whiffing department went to Bruce Saville of Capon Bridge who struck out 46, one less than Melody. Robert Moyer of Mathias fanned 48 and Bill Mathis of Romney mowed down a total of 42.

Two Fanned 16 In Game

Melody and Saville struck out the most batters in a single game—a total of 16. Saville whiffed that many West Virginia School for the Deaf stickers and Melody had his big day when he hurled the no-hitter against the Lions of Romney. Wine fanned 15 in a game on two occasions, including the no-hit contest.

Toohey's 3-Year Mark 9-2

Bill Toohey, Moorefield's southpaw ace, turned in a 4-1 record to make his three-year mark in the conference 9-2. He was 5-0 in 1959 and 0-1 in 1958.

Maphis won two and lost two for the Pioneers this year and wound up his high school career with an 8-4 mark. He was 3-1 in 1958 and the same last year.

Toohey pitched more innings than any hurler in the circuit this year—a total of 47⅔. Wayne Linn, of Fort Ashby, appeared in the most games—a total of 10.

Milwaukee Tops Chicago, 10-7

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves clubbed out 14 hits Thursday to beat the Chicago Cubs, 10-7, with shortstop Johnny Logan collecting three hits and Henry Aaron driving in four runs.

Two Cub pitchers, starter Mark Freeman and loser Joe Schaffernoth, took the shellacking in the game that was delayed 42 minutes by rain and tied twice before the Braves sewed it up with three runs in the eighth inning.

Milwaukee's pitching was far from sharp either as three of the younger members of the Braves staff handed out 12 bases on balls—two of them intentional.

Milwaukee rookie Ron Piche, although he allowed a lead-off home run to Don Zimmer that tied the game 6-6 in the seventh inning, was the winner. He pitched the last three innings.

Corle Rides Three Delaware Winners, Boosts Total To 19

Corle scored his first win of the day aboard Moon Shot, favorite in the field of seven, in the featured Flambino Handicap, and backers collected $6.20, $3.60 and $2.60 across the board.

MAUCH PSYCHOLOGY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It was Alvin Dark's fault," said Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies when left fielder Tony Curry threw to an empty third base. Dark had deserted his spot for a possible play near second. The ball went into the Phillie dugout and the Milwaukee batter reached third.

"Shucks," said Mauch the next day, "Alvin doesn't mind taking the blame. Wasn't it better to blame him than Curry, a rookie?"

Mike Melody of Keyser High School's championship team was the winningest pitcher and also the strikeout king of the Potomac Valley Conference for the 1960 season.

Melody also was among the three pitchers of the circuit who twirled no-run, no-hit games during the campaign. The three no-hitters, incidentally, were all by the same score of 10-0. Melody beat the West Virginia School for the Deaf on April 8, Jerry Wine, of Southern High's undefeated Highlanders, tossed his no-hitter against Bayard on April 28, and Richard Bennett of the Franklin Panthers beat Circleville on April 13.

The Keyser twirler figured in eight of the nine games played by Coach "Tack" Clark's team, posted a record of six wins and one loss and fired the third strike past a total of 46 batters in 30⅔ innings. Runner-up honors in the whiffing department went to Bruce Saville of Capon Bridge who struck out 45, one less than Melody. Robert Moyer of Mathias fanned 43 and Bill Mathis of Romney mowed down a total of 42.

Two Fanned 16 In Game

Melody and Saville struck out the most batters in a single game—a total of 16. Saville whiffed that many West Virginia School for the Deaf stickers and Melody had his big day when he hurled the no-hitter against the Lions of Romney. Wine fanned 15 in a game on two occasions, including the no-hit contest.

Toohey's 3-Year Mark 9-2

Bill Toohey, Moorefield's southpaw ace, turned in a 4-1 record to make his three-year mark in the conference 9-2. He was 5-0 in 1959 and 0-1 in 1958.

Maphis won two and lost two for the Pioneers this year and wound up his high school career with an 8-4 mark. He was 3-1 in 1958 and the same last year.

Toohey pitched more innings than any hurler in the circuit this year—a total of 47⅔. Wayne Linn, of Fort Ashby, appeared in the most games—a total of 10.

Milwaukee Tops Chicago, 10-7

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves clubbed out 14 hits Thursday to beat the Chicago Cubs, 10-7, with shortstop Johnny Logan collecting three hits and Henry Aaron driving in four runs.

Two Cub pitchers, starter Mark Freeman and loser Joe Schaffernoth, took the shellacking in the game that was delayed 42 minutes by rain and tied twice before the Braves sewed it up with three runs in the eighth inning.

Milwaukee's pitching was far from sharp either as three of the younger members of the Braves staff handed out 12 bases on balls—two of them intentional.

Milwaukee rookie Ron Piche, although he allowed a lead-off home run to Don Zimmer that tied the game 6-6 in the seventh inning, was the winner. He pitched the last three innings.

Corle Rides Three Delaware Winners, Boosts Total To 19

Corle scored his first win of the day aboard Moon Shot, favorite in the field of seven, in the featured Flambino Handicap, and backers collected $6.20, $3.60 and $2.60 across the board.

The Imler, Pa., saddlesmith posted his 18th win of the meeting aboard Prairie Star ($6.20) in the seventh and chalked up No. 19 with Capt. Charles ($21.40) in the eighth race.

MAUCH PSYCHOLOGY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It was Alvin Dark's fault," said Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies when left fielder Tony Curry threw to an empty third base. Dark had deserted his spot for a possible play near second. The ball went into the Phillie dugout and the Milwaukee batter reached third.

"Shucks," said Mauch the next day, "Alvin doesn't mind taking the blame. Wasn't it better to blame him than Curry, a rookie?"

Williams Hits Homer No. 499 As Bosox Lose

Detroit Wins, 6-5, On Bolling's Blow

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Bolling's tenth-inning single gave the Detroit Tigers a 6-5 victory over Boston Wednesday, after Ted Williams hit his 499th home run in the top of the ninth to tie the score.

Bolling's single followed base hits by pinch-hitter Sandy Amoros and Eddie Yost. Dave Sisler, who came on in the ninth, picked up his fourth win against two defeats.

Williams' homer off southpaw Hank Aguirre put him within one of the coveted 500 lifetime mark. Only three players in big league history—Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx and Mel Ott—have managed to hit more than 500 into the seats.

Fifty-four of Ted's homers have been belted in Briggs Stadium, 16 more than in any other park outside of Boston.

Our congratulations to "Bobby" Cavanaugh.

Remember, at the end of each season of football, basketball, baseball, softball, bowling, tennis, track, shuffleboard, and golf . . . a nominee will be selected for the Hall of Fame. In December of each year one individual will be selected from among the nominees for the Hall of Fame.

Williams Hits Homer No. 499 As Bosox Lose

Detroit Wins, 6-5, On Bolling's Blow

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Bolling's tenth-inning single gave the Detroit Tigers a 6-5 victory over Boston Wednesday, after Ted Williams hit his 499th home run in the top of the ninth to tie the score.

Bolling's single followed base hits by pinch-hitter Sandy Amoros and Eddie Yost. Dave Sisler, who came on in the ninth, picked up his fourth win against two defeats.

The loser was Dave Hillman, who suffered his third loss in as many decisions.

Williams' homer off southpaw Hank Aguirre put him within one of the coveted 500 lifetime mark. Only three players in big league history—Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx and Mel Ott—have managed to hit more than 500 into the seats.

Fifty-four of Ted's homers have been belted in Briggs Stadium, 16 more than in any other park outside of Boston.

Labor Heads Urge Action On Route 40

The need for the inclusion of U. S. Route 40 from Hancock to the Garrett County-Pennsylvania border in the U. S. Route 70 transcontinental highway system was pointed out yesterday by local labor leaders.

F. Patrick Allender head of the Carpenters' Union and John G. Thomas head of the Celanese Textile Workers' Union, met with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to urge the board and residents of Allegany and Garrett counties to work for the inclusion of the Hancock to Pennsylvania section of Route 40 in the federal highway plan.

The local labor leaders referred to a recent incident in which three large Air Force tractor-trailers believed to be carrying missiles moved over Route 40.

Allender said the missiles were being transported from Philadelphia and Baltimore to Ohio and could not use the Pennsylvania Turnpike as as the tunnels and overpasses on that route were too small to accommodate the huge vehicles.

Allender said the plan as listed by federal officials is to take the highway along the entire distance of Route 40 from Atlantic City to the West Coast except for the portion between Hancock and through Allegany and Garrett counties.

The labor leader said the cost of boring new tunnels on the Turnpike route or enlarging present ones as well as the overpass problem would be much greater than using Route 40 as the line for the modern dual lane highway. He also said much of the present roadbed of the Turnpike would have to be torn up as it does not meet federal specifications for the ultra-modern U. S. Route 70 transcontinental highway.

John G. Thomas said the time is vital in getting action on the inclusion of the section in the two westernmost Maryland counties in the new federal plan.

Allender said the residents of Allegany and Garrett counties are "secondary citizens of Maryland" by the way the route for the new federal highway was decided upon.

The transcontinental highway would veer north at Hancock and tie-in with the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Breezewood.

Commissioners Meet At Westminster

Allegany County Commissioners John J. Rowan and William A. Wilson will attend the meeting of the Western Maryland Association of County Commissioners today at Westminster as guests of the Carroll County Commissioners.

This is the first time the commissioners of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties have met in Carroll County since the area association was formed last July. Carroll County was brought into the organization in March at the meeting at the Cumberland Country Club.

About 25 persons from five counties will meet at 11 a. m. today in the Carroll County office building. Later they will attend a luncheon at the county agricultural center. A business session will be held in the afternoon.

Young Adults Plan Galilean Service At New Germany

The Cumberland Subdistrict Methodist Youth Fellowship will hold a Galilean service June 25 at New Germany in Garrett County.

At 8 p.m. the Galilean service will be held with Rev. Robert W. Current, pastor of First Methodist Church in Frostburg, speaking from a boat on the water.

A candlelight service will follow the Galilean service. Carl Winters, president of the Subdistrict Fellowship, will be in charge of the program, and Mrs. Ethel Thompson will be in charge of games.

Youth Receives Suspended Term

Ronald K. Hare, 18, of 2 Elizabeth Street, was found guilty of petty larceny yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court and was given a 60-day suspended sentence.

Two Treated Following Falls

Two persons were treated at local hospitals Wednesday night after being injured in falls.

Labor Heads Urge Action On Route 40

The need for the inclusion of U. S. Route 40 from Hancock to the Garrett County-Pennsylvania border in the U. S. Route 70 transcontinental highway system was pointed out yesterday by local labor leaders.

F. Patrick Allender head of the Carpenters' Union and John G. Thomas head of the Celanese Textile Workers' Union, met with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to urge the board and residents of Allegany and Garrett counties to work for the inclusion of the Hancock to Pennsylvania section of Route 40 in the federal highway plan.

The local labor leaders referred to a recent incident in which three large Air Force tractor-trailers believed to be carrying missiles moved over Route 40.

Allender said the missiles were being transported from Philadelphia and Baltimore to Ohio and could not use the Pennsylvania Turnpike as as the tunnels and overpasses on that route were too small to accommodate the huge vehicles.

Allender said the plan as listed by federal officials is to take the highway along the entire distance of Route 40 from Atlantic City to the West Coast except for the portion between Hancock and through Allegany and Garrett counties.

The labor leader said the cost of boring new tunnels on the Turnpike route or enlarging present ones as well as the overpass problem would be much greater than using Route 40 as the line for the modern dual lane highway. He also said much of the present roadbed of the Turnpike would have to be torn up as it does not meet federal specifications for the ultra-modern U. S. Route 70 transcontinental highway.

John G. Thomas said the time is vital in getting action on the inclusion of the section in the two westernmost Maryland counties in the new federal plan.

Allender said the residents of Allegany and Garrett counties are "secondary citizens of Maryland" by the way the route for the new federal highway was decided upon.

The transcontinental highway would veer north at Hancock and tie-in with the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Breezewood.

Commission's Chief Aim Is Master Plan

Planning Chairman Outlines Objectives

The primary objective of the Allegany County Planning Commission, organized earlier this year, is the development of a master plan which will provide for the orderly growth of industrial, commercial, residential and agricultural areas of the county.

That view was presented yesterday by Richard Winer, chairman of the County Planning Commission, as guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

In the development of this master plan, he said, Allegany County should have the services of a full-time planner. Only about 250 professional planners were graduated from the nation's colleges this month and there are vacancies for about 700. That indicates the problem the county faces in employing a full-time planner.

There are a number of capable planning consultant firms and the County Planning Commission already has interviewed several of these firms.

Last night, four of the five members of the County Planning Commission had a dinner meeting at the Cumberland Country Club with Richard Gucker, Maryland's new state planning engineer, who has pledged his cooperation with the county group. Mr. Gucker formerly was employed in Indiana. Meeting with him were Mr. Winer, County Commissioner John T. Mason, James A. Perrin, local realtor, and Ralph M. Race, Frostburg banker. Alvin H. Ternent, Lonaconing merchant and the fifth member, is out of the country.

To assist in the preparation of the master plan, the new commission can be assisted by an economic survey of 1952 and current census figures which show growth in certain areas of the county despite an overall population drop of more than 5,000 persons.

C&A Offers Renewal Of Expired Pact

Local 419 To Act On Proposal Monday

Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company withdrew its demands in contract negotiations with Local 419 of the AFL-CIO Utility Workers of America here yesterday and offered the union a renewal of its expired contract, according to C. C. Robbins, district manager.

As an alternative, he said, C&A offered renewal of the contract with any pertinent changes resulting from current negotiations with other unions now bargaining with its affiliate, Manufacturers Light and Heat Company.

Will Take Back

Mr. Robbins said union negotiators told company representatives they would take the offer back to the union but he could not predict whether the union negotiators would recommend acceptance of the offer to Local 419's members.

DeWarren H. O'Neal, president of Local 419, said the company proposal will be presented to the local at a membership meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

C&A's contract with the Utility Workers local expired here May 31. Union members have been working for over two weeks without a contract, Mr. Robbins said.

UWA Local 419 has some 80 members in Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing in Maryland and in Piedmont and Keyser in nearby West Virginia.

Urges Renewal

"Renewal of last year's contract will work to the advantage of UWA 419 members here," Mr. Robbins said, "because our studies show the expired contract provided for wages equal to those now paid by other utilities in this area."

He said the company's fringe benefits under the expired contract compare very favorably with present provisions for fringe benefits paid by other companies.

"The high level of the company's present wages and fringe benefits, combined with the fact that wage increases have run substantially higher than increases in the cost of living in the past several years, make the company's offer a favorable one," Mr. Robbins maintained.

Rev. Bell Transferred

Rev. George T. C. Bell, who has been pastor of McKendree Methodist Church longer than any man in the church's history of more than 75 years, has been transferred to Calvary Methodist Church in McKeesport, Pa., he disclosed last night.

Rev. Mr. Bell, who has been pastor at McKendree for eight years, will be succeeded here by Rev. Samuel Carter, pastor of a church at Bel Air in Harford County. Both new pastors will preach their first sermons in the new churches Sunday.

A native of Baltimore who grew up in Westminster, Rev. Mr. Bell has been a clergyman since 1931. His McKeesport call will be his seventh appointment in more than 29 years in the ministry. He came here in 1952 from Huntington, W Va., where his predecessor at McKendree, Rev. George A Tate, became pastor.

The departing clergyman will be in McKeesport for next Sunday's services but will not move until next week. The parsonage is at 132 Polk Street.

School-Convent Building Permit Issued By City

The City of Cumberland yesterday issued permits for the construction of a new school and convent for St. Mary's Catholic Church and for a dwelling on Patterson Avenue. The work is estimated to cost a total of $405,000.

The one and two story building will be of masonry construction, 92 by 240 feet and will be built on a lot fronting 470 feet on Prince George Street.

It will be constructed at a cost of $397,000 under a contract awarded to Kirby and McGuire, Baltimore contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. August V. Robey 10 Allegany Street, secured a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling on Lots 11, 12 and 13 of Patterson Avenue.

The home will be about 41 by 25 feet and will cost $8,000. It is being erected by Quentin L. Griffey.

MRS. KARLEEN ROSAAEN

New Director Named At Girl Scout Camp

Tioga To Open For Five Sessions

Mrs. Karleen Rosaaen, St. Louis, Mo., will begin staff training Tuesday in preparation for the opening of the fourth season of Camp Tioga, the Shawnee Girl Scout Council camp at Flintstone.

Mrs. Rosaaen, an elementary school teacher and former professional Girl Scout staff member, has varied experiences in directing camps. She directed day and established camps in Austin, Minn., established camps in the Black Hills, of South Dakota, Evansville, Ind., Ann Arbor, Mich., Fredonia, N. Y., and Tucson, Ariz. Mrs. Rosaaen was a unit leader in the first established camp for the Girl Scouts in Germany in 1957.

This year's camp program will have a special emphasis on good campcraft skills to help prepare girls to participate in national camping events for which they will be eligible as they become senior scouts. The eighth grade and high school age unit will participate in a pioneering skills unit the first week of camp June 26 to July 2. A piece of land on the campsite not formerly developed will be utilized by this group.

For older scouts not especially interested in advanced camping skills, an "adventuring in the arts" program will be offered during the 12-day period which begins Tuesday, July 5. This program will combine crafts, music and dramatics especially suited to outdoor programs. A special dramatics project will be offered in all five camping sessions.

Places in camp this year are being reserved for Brownie Scouts, especially third and fourth graders. Applications are being accepted daily Monday through Friday at the Girl Scout office or may be mailed directly to 72 Greene Street, Cumberland. There are some openings at the present time in all units for Scouts of all ages.

A counselor-in-training program is being given during the first four weeks of camp. This is the first time this program has been offered in several years. The course gives older Senior Scouts who are entering their junior year in high school an opportunity to prepare for camp leadership and qualify for camping positions locally or in other Girl Scout camps in the region.

The course deals with perfecting camping skills, methods of teaching them, observations of program in operation and planning and carrying out camping activities. This is a standard course which is given in many other Girl Scout camps throughout the country.

A special work day at camp will be held tomorrow, to complete preparations for opening camp. There are tents to be erected, equipment to be placed, minor repair jobs and brush to be cleared. This will be a special "Girl Scout Dad and daughter day," with suitable jobs for everyone.

Several Explorer Boy Scout troops and their leaders have volunteered their services for that day and others are invited. Volunteer members of the camp committee have been preparing

Hiking Scouts Near End Of Walk To Fort

Frostburg Group To Arrive Today

By HOWARD WARD
News Frostburg Bureau

The Scouts arrived at Glisan's Restaurant about five and a half miles east of the fort at 2:30 p.m. after hiking 13 miles during the day, a little better than the pace they have set since they left Riverside Park here Monday morning, walking beside a covered wagon drawn by a team of horses.

They expect to arrive at Fort Necessity late this morning after retracing the route of George Washington in his 1754 expedition to the Ohio Valley and General Edward Braddock's ill-fated trip of the following year.

To Present Plaque

The plaque was presented to the hikers Monday by Mayor J. Edwin Keech on behalf of Potomac Council Boy Scouts.

After tours of the fort and the museum at the site the troop will hold a court of awards inside the fort's earthworks. About 75 merit badges will be presented — including hiking badges to all members of the expedition. Then the travelers will return home in cars.

Although the trip started badly in Monday's rainy weather, the hikers have been favored with fairly dry but cloudy weather which helped prevent sunburn and exhaustion. There have been no injuries or serious illnesses, but enough minor foot blisters to go around.

Historic Campsites

Each night the hikers have camped at a Braddock encampment. They spent Monday night at Braddock Park in Frostburg, Tuesday in Little Meadows 11 miles west of Frostburg, Wednesday at Bear Camp at the foot of Keyser's Ridge just south of the Pennsylvania line. Last night they were camped in a grove behind Glisan's Restaurant, near Twelve Springs.

All along their route the Scouts and their wagon have attracted attention and have been offered help. The proprietor of a frozen custard stand got them to stop long enough for free cones yesterday.

The 24 boys and their six adult advisors have been cooking their breakfasts and lunches, and parents of the boys have been driving to their campsites each night to bring supper and to visit.

Two Men Held In Larceny

Two area men yesterday were committed to Allegany County Jail in default of bonds to await trial in the breaking and larceny of merchandise from the Potomac Candy Company, Westernport.

Thomas Herbert Greene, 32, Keyser, W.Va., and William W. Wilson, 40 of Bloomington, were given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Both men have indicated they would ask for an immediate trial.

The two men were charged with breaking into the Westernport establishment on June 7 and taking a quantity of cigarets, cigars and candy valued at $85.30.

Greene was arrested by Westernport police and Wilson was arrested by Tfc. Milton G. Hart of the State Police.

Red Men To Dance, Crown Princess

Tonkaway Tribe 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold a war dance at the club rooms on Bedford Street tonight at 8 o'clock. All members will be in Indian regalia.

A highlight of the celebration will be the crowning of a princess in connection with a drive to raise funds for costumes for the Red Men, who will take part in the Blue Angels parade Monday night in Westernport.

Coincidence, Nostalgia, Highlight Times-News Tour

(Editor's note: Although the Times-News European tour has concluded and most of the members have returned home, J. William Hunt, tour director, and a few others remain in Europe on an extended tour.)

By J. WILLIAM HUNT

DUSSELDORF, Germany—The conclusion of a tour such as is sponsored by the Times-News through numerous European countries for a period of nearly one month brings a relization that it is pleasant and satisfying to travel in such manner.

Nostalgic recollections began at the airport in Zurich when 12 of the 16 in this year's Cumberland area group "took off" in three different planes for as many different lands.

Two had left the party in Rome for a Near East trek (Mr. and Mrs. William A. Douglas) and two remained in Switzerland for an extra visit (Mr. and Mrs. Ruth Powell and Mrs. Helen Wise.)

At the last moment when all plane flights to France were canceled Friday morning (June 10) Miss Kathryn (Kitty) Gettle, who had booked an Air France flight to Paris, decided to return with eight of the party by Swissair jet to the U.S. instead of waiting in Switzerland for the end of the French strike that had stopped air travel to Paris.

Returning by jet to Idlewild were Mrs. Ruth Todd, Mrs. Louise Spates, Miss Kathleen Wolfe, Mrs. Anna Russell, Mrs. Catherine Glick, Miss Gettle, Elmer J. Reinhard, Irby S. Rutherford and Andrew Speir.

Mrs. Ruth Dyer and Mrs. Gertrude Halbritter flew BEA to London for a four-day stay in England, and J. William Hunt emplaned (also by BEA) to Dusseldorf, to be followed by stops in Dublin and Shannon before returning in late June to the U.S.

Slightly more than 2,500 miles of bus travel and over 7,000 miles by plane, plus a 25-mile boat ride from Sorrento to Capri and return, were included in this year's Times-News-Conlon tour of six countries in three weeks and three days.

In that time only one traffic accident was seen—a tractor trailer upset June 7 on the road between Lausanne and Bern, Switzerland, in which at least one person was injured and placed in an ambulance.

Anna Russell and her sister, Mrs. Glick, sat next to a couple on the cogwheel train trip up the Jungfrau. The man proved to be Dr. Tchalowsky of Fort Elizabeth, South Africa.

Mrs. Russell recalled that her next - door Washington Street neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. George Tuka and son, Michael, once lived in South Africa, explaining that Mr. Tuka is in the export department of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

"I knew a family by that name," said Dr. Tchalowsky, a dentist, "and did some work on their son's teeth. But the father was connected with Goodyear."

With thousands of people making the Jungfrau trip from Interlaken, Mrs. Russell happened to sit next to a dentist from South Africa who knew her next-door neighbor in Cumberland:

Andrew Speir was billeted during the first World War with a German family in the Rhineland named Deetzle. A little boy named Heinie in that home took a fancy to the U.S. doughboy and intermittent correspondence ensued.

Speir wrote in late April that the Times-News party would be in Heidelberg. There waiting to see him at the Hotel Schreider on May 22 were Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich Deetzle of Mayen, Germany, parents of two teen-agers.

Deetzle, a German soldier in World War II, was the little boy Speir knew in World War I.

As our group arrived at the Hotel Continentale, Rome, on May 30 there was Vincent McAloon to greet his Cumberland friends. Now in charge of public relations at the Notre Dame International School in Rome and executive secretary of the Notre Dame Alumni Society there, McAloon is probably the best-known American in the Eternal City.

Before going to Rome five years ago, he was a frequent visitor to Cumberland. He is a native of Rhode Island.

In addition to seeing Vincent McAloon, this writer saw a Christian Brother at the far end of the lobby who proved to be Brother Aurelian, an acquaintance from the New York Province, currently assigned to the mother house of the Christian Brothers in Rome.

Others include passing a mountain of marble near Carrara, Italy; the special treat by Signor Agosto Rossi, owner-manager of the Scoglia da Frescia Restaurant, Rome, when he brought out his own aged raisin wine reserved for friends and honored guests.

Passing a three-mile long U.S. military base a few miles south of Pisa, Italy; the 32 miles of straight three-lined highway on the route from Rome to Naples; a funeral on foot in Southern Italy with scores of children carrying floral tributes; the Campo Santos cemetery in Genoa, where some of the world's finest sculpture marks graves of humble people including the famous marble likeness of herself which Caterina Campodonico, a street peddler, had sculptured while she still lived.

Every penny she saved for over 60 years went towards paying for this monument which shows her in peasant dress with shawl and apron, saying her rosary as she stood on the street in all kinds of weather selling pins and ornaments, shoestrings and religious articles.

And now that the physical tour is over there comes to all somewhat nostalgic remembrance of pleasant happenings in foreign lands when minor disappointments disappear in the overwhelming recollection of friendly association and the enrichment of life through a better knowledge and understanding of "all of God's children."

Commission's Chief Aim Is Master Plan

Planning Chairman Outlines Objectives

The primary objective of the Allegany County Planning Commission, organized earlier this year, is the development of a master plan which will provide for the orderly growth of industrial, commercial, residential and agricultural areas of the county.

That view was presented yesterday by Richard Winer, chairman of the County Planning Commission, as guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

In the development of this master plan, he said, Allegany County should have the services of a full-time planner. Only about 250 professional planners were graduated from the nation's colleges this month and there are vacancies for about 700. That indicates the problem the county faces in employing a full-time planner.

There are a number of capable planning consultant firms and the County Planning Commission already has interviewed several of these firms.

Last night, four of the five members of the County Planning Commission had a dinner meeting at the Cumberland Country Club with Richard Gucker, Maryland's new state planning engineer, who has pledged his cooperation with the county group. Mr. Gucker formerly was employed in Indiana. Meeting with him were Mr. Winer, County Commissioner John T. Mason, James A. Perrin, local realtor, and Ralph M. Race, Frostburg banker, Alvin H. Ternent, Lonaconing merchant and the fifth member, is out of the country.

To assist in the preparation of the master plan, the new commission can be assisted by an economic survey of 1952 and current census figures which show growth in certain areas of the county despite an overall population drop of more than 5,000 persons.

The local troupe will be in charge of initiation ceremonies during the conference at the theatre on the campus.

Miss Helen Smith, English and speech instructor who has been advisor to the troupe since 1947 said about 250 students from high schools throughout the United States will be initiated.

Miss Smith, who will accompany the troupe, said between 1,200 and 1,500 persons are expected to attend and watch the new members take obligations. The meaning of Thespians and its organization will be included in the impressive ceremony, she added.

She pointed out 2,050 high school troupes have membership in the national society which is recognized as part of the American Educational Theater Association.

The local high school's troupe, organized in 1932 by Miss Gerardine Pritchard, English teacher at Fort Hill, is one of the oldest in the nation, the first troupe having been formed in the United States in 1929.

Miss Smith said this is about the first time a troupe in the Eastern United States has been chosen to be in charge of the initiation. Usually, high schools of California and Washington State are in charge. The national conference is held every two years.

C&A Offers Renewal Of Expired Pact

Local 419 To Act On Proposal Monday

Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company withdrew its demands in contract negotiations with Local 419 of the AFL-CIO Utility Workers of America here yesterday and offered the union a renewal of its expired contract, according to C. C. Robbins, district manager.

As an alternative, he said, C&A offered renewal of the contract with any pertinent changes resulting from current negotiations with other unions now bargaining with its affiliate, Manufacturers Light and Heat Company.

Will Take Back

Mr. Robbins said union negotiators told company representatives they would take the offer back to the union but he could not predict whether the union negotiators would recommend acceptance of the offer to Local 419's members.

DeWarren H. O'Neal, president of Local 419, said the company proposal will be presented to the local at a membership meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

C&A's contract with the Utility Workers local expired here May 31. Union members have been working for over two weeks without a contract, Mr. Robbins said.

UWA Local 419 has some 80 members in Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing in Maryland and in Piedmont and Keyser in nearby West Virginia.

Urges Renewal

"Renewal of last year's contract will work to the advantage of UWA 419 members here," Mr. Robbins said, "because our studies show the expired contract provided for wages equal to those now paid by other utilities in this area."

He said the company's fringe benefits under the expired contract compare very favorably with present provisions for fringe benefits paid by other companies.

"The high level of the company's present wages and fringe benefits, combined with the fact that wage increases have run substantially higher than increases in the cost of living in the past several years, make the company's offer a favorable one," Mr. Robbins maintained.

School-Convent Building Permit Issued By City

The City of Cumberland yesterday issued permits for the construction of a new school and convent for St. Mary's Catholic Church and for a dwelling on Patterson Avenue. The work is estimated to cost a total of $405,000.

The permit for the church and convent was issued to the Archbishop of Baltimore.

The one and two story building will be of masonry construction, 92 by 240 feet and will be built on a lot fronting 470 feet on Prince George Street.

It will be constructed at a cost of $397,000 under a contract awarded to Kirby and McGuire, Baltimore contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. August V. Robey 10 Allegany Street, secured a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling on Lots 11, 12 and 13 of Patterson Avenue.

The home will be about 41 by 25 feet and will cost $8,000. It is being erected by Quentin L. Griffey.

MRS. KARLEEN ROSAAEN

New Director Named At Girl Scout Camp

Tioga To Open For Five Sessions

Mrs. Karleen Rosaaen, St. Louis, Mo., will begin staff training Tuesday in preparation for the opening of the fourth season of Camp Tioga, the Shawnee Girl Scout Council camp at Flintstone.

Mrs. Rosaaen, an elementary school teacher and former professional Girl Scout staff member, has varied experiences in directing camps. She directed day and established camps in Austin, Minn., established camps in the Black Hills, of South Dakota, Evansville, Ind., Ann Arbor, Mich., Fredonia, N. Y., and Tucson, Ariz. Mrs. Rosaaen was a unit leader in the first established camp for the Girl Scouts in Germany in 1957.

This year's camp program will have a special emphasis on good campcraft skills to help prepare girls to participate in national camping events for which they will be eligible as they become senior scouts. The eighth grade and high school age unit will participate in a pioneering skills unit the first week of camp June 26 to July 2. A piece of land on the campsite not formerly developed will be utilized by this group.

For older scouts not especially interested in advanced camping skills, an "adventuring in the arts" program will be offered during the 12-day period which begins Tuesday, July 5. This program will combine crafts, music and dramatics especially suited to outdoor programs. A special dramatics project will be offered in all five camping sessions.

Places in camp this year are being reserved for Brownie Scouts, especially third and fourth graders. Applications are being accepted daily Monday through Friday at the Girl Scout office or may be mailed directly to 72 Greene Street, Cumberland. There are some openings at the present time in all units for Scouts of all ages.

A counselor-in-training program is being given during the first four weeks of camp. This is the first time this program has been offered in several years. The course gives older Senior Scouts who are entering their junior year in high school an opportunity to prepare for camp leadership and qualify for camping positions locally or in other Girl Scout camps in the region.

The course deals with perfecting camping skills, methods of teaching them, observations of program in operation and planning and carrying out camping activities. This is a standard course which is given in many other Girl Scout camps throughout the country.

A special work day at camp will be held tomorrow, to complete preparations for opening camp. There are tents to be erected, equipment to be placed, minor repair jobs and brush to be cleared. This will be a special "Girl Scout Dad and daughter day," with suitable jobs for everyone.

Several Explorer Boy Scout troops and their leaders have volunteered their services for that day and others are invited. Volunteer members of the camp committee have been preparing

Hiking Scouts Near End Of Walk To Fort

By HOWARD WARD
News Frostburg Bureau

The Scouts arrived at Glisan's Restaurant about five and a half miles east of the fort at 2:30 p.m. after hiking 13 miles during the day, a little better than the pace they have set since they left Riverside Park here Monday morning, walking beside a covered wagon drawn by a team of horses.

They expect to arrive at Fort Necessity late this morning after retracing the route of George Washington in his 1754 expedition to the Ohio Valley and General Edward Braddock's ill-fated trip of the following year.

To Present Plaque

Daniel Folk, scoutmaster of Troop 42, will present a plaque to Melvin J. Thorpe, superintendent of the battlefield site, commemorating the Frostburg troop's hike.

The plaque was presented to the hikers Monday by Mayor J. Edwin Keech on behalf of Potomac Council Boy Scouts.

After tours of the fort and the museum at the site the troop will hold a court of awards inside the fort's earthworks. About 75 merit badges will be presented — including hiking badges to all members of the expedition. Then the travelers will return home in cars.

Although the trip started badly in Monday's rainy weather, the hikers have been favored with fairly dry but cloudy weather which helped prevent sunburn and exhaustion. There have been no injuries or serious illnesses, but enough minor foot blisters to go around.

Historic Campsites

Each night the hikers have camped at a Braddock encampment. They spent Monday night at Braddock Park in Frostburg, Tuesday in Little Meadows 11 miles west of Frostburg, Wednesday at Bear Camp at the foot of Keyser's Ridge just south of the Pennsylvania line. Last night they were camped in a grove behind Glisan's Restaurant, near Twelve Springs.

All along their route the Scouts and their wagon have attracted attention and have been offered help. The proprietor of a frozen custard stand got them to stop long enough for free cones yesterday.

The 24 boys and their six adult advisors have been cooking their breakfasts and lunches, and parents of the boys have been driving to their campsites each night to bring supper and to visit.

Two Men Held In Larceny

Two area men yesterday were committed to Allegany County Jail in default of bonds to await trial in the breaking and larceny of merchandise from the Potomac Candy Company, Westernport.

Thomas Herbert Greene, 32, Keyser, W.Va., and William W. Wilson, 40 of Bloomington, were given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Both men have indicated they would ask for an immediate trial.

The two men were charged with breaking into the Westernport establishment on June 7 and taking a quantity of cigarets, cigars and candy valued at $85.30.

Greene was arrested by Westernport police and Wilson was arrested by Tfc. Milton G. Hart of the State Police.

Red Men To Dance, Crown Princess

Tonkaway Tribe 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold a war dance at the club rooms on Bedford Street tonight at 8 o'clock. All members will be in Indian regalia.

A highlight of the celebration will be the crowning of a princess in connection with a drive to raise funds for costumes for the Red Men, who will take part in the Blue Angels parade Monday night in Westernport.

Coincidence, Nostalgia, Highlight Times-News Tour

(Editor's note: Although the Times-News European tour has concluded and most of the members have returned home, J. William Hunt, tour director, and a few others remain in Europe on an extended tour.)

By J. WILLIAM HUNT

DUSSELDORF, Germany—The conclusion of a tour such as is sponsored by the Times-News through numerous European countries for a period of nearly one month brings a relization that it is pleasant and satisfying to travel in such manner.

Nostalgic recollections began at the airport in Zurich when 12 of the 16 in this year's Cumberland area group "took off" in three different planes for as many different lands.

Two had left the party in Rome for a Near East trek (Mr. and Mrs. William A. Douglas) and two remained in Switzerland for an extra visit (Mr. and Mrs. Ruth Powell and Mrs. Helen Wise.)

At the last moment when all plane flights to France were canceled Friday morning (June 10) Miss Kathryn (Kitty) Gettle, who had booked an Air France flight to Paris, decided to return with eight of the party by Swissair jet to the U.S. instead of waiting in Switzerland for the end of the French strike that had stopped air travel to Paris.

Returning by jet to Idlewild were Mrs. Ruth Todd, Mrs. Louise Spates, Miss Kathleen Wolfe, Mrs. Anna Russell, Mrs. Catherine Glick, Miss Gettle, Elmer J. Reinhard, Irby S. Rutherford and Andrew Speir.

Mrs. Ruth Dyer and Mrs. Gertrude Halbritter flew BEA to London for a four-day stay in England, and J. William Hunt emplaned (also by BEA) to Dusseldorf, to be followed by stops in Dublin and Shannon before returning in late June to the U.S.

Slightly more than 2,500 miles of bus travel and over 7,000 miles by plane, plus a 25-mile boat ride from Sorrento to Capri and return, were included in this year's Times-News-Conlon tour of six countries in three weeks and three days.

In that time only one traffic accident was seen—a tractor trailer upset June 7 on the road between Lausanne and Bern, Switzerland, in which at least one person was injured and placed in an ambulance.

Anna Russell and her sister, Mrs. Glick, sat next to a couple on the cogwheel train trip up the Jungfrau. The man proved to be Dr. Tchalowsky of Fort Elizabeth, South Africa.

Mrs. Russell recalled that her next-door Washington Street neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. George Tuka and son, Michael, once lived in South Africa, explaining that Mr. Tuka is in the export department of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

"I knew a family by that name," said Dr. Tchalowsky, a dentist, "and did some work on their son's teeth. But the father was connected with Goodyear."

Of course, it was the same person because George Tuka joined Kelly after his Goodyear service.

With thousands of people making the Jungfrau trip from Interlaken, Mrs. Russell happened to sit next to a dentist from South Africa who knew her next-door neighbor in Cumberland:

Andrew Speir was billeted during the first World War with a German family in the Rhineland named Deetzle. A little boy named Heinie in that home took a fancy to the U.S. doughboy and intermittent correspondence ensued.

Speir wrote in late April that the Times-News party would be in Heidelberg. There waiting to see him at the Hotel Schreider on May 22 were Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich Deetzle of Mayen, Germany, parents of two teen-agers.

Deetzle, a German soldier in World War II, was the little boy Speir knew in World War I.

As our group arrived at the Hotel Continentale, Rome, on May 30 there was Vincent McAloon to greet his Cumberland friends. Now in charge of public relations at the Notre Dame International School in Rome and executive secretary of the Notre Dame Alumni Society there, McAloon is probably the best-known American in the Eternal City.

Before going to Rome five years ago, he was a frequent visitor to Cumberland. He is a native of Rhode Island.

In addition to seeing Vincent McAloon, this writer saw a Christian Brother at the far end of the lobby who proved to be Brother Aurelian, an acquaintance from the New York Province, currently assigned to the mother house of the Christian Brothers in Rome.

These are but a few of the incidents that brighten and give spice and human interest to a tour such as this.

Others include passing a mountain of marble near Carrara, Italy; the special treat by Signor Agosto Rossi, owner-manager of the Scoglia da Frescia Restaurant, Rome, when he brought out his own aged raisin wine reserved for friends and honored guests.

Passing a three-mile long U.S. military base a few miles south of Pisa, Italy; the 32 miles of straight three-lined highway on the route from Rome to Naples; a funeral on foot in Southern Italy with scores of children carrying floral tributes; the Campo Santos cemetery in Genoa, where some of the world's finest sculpture marks graves of humble people including the famous marble likeness of herself which Caterina Campodonico, a street peddler, had sculptured while she still lived.

Every penny she saved for over 60 years went towards paying for this monument which shows her in peasant dress with shawl and apron, saying her rosary as she stood on the street in all kinds of weather selling pins and ornaments, shoestrings and religious articles.

And now that the physical tour is over there comes to all somewhat nostalgic remembrance of pleasant happenings in foreign lands when minor disappointments disappear in the overwhelming recollection of friendly association and the enrichment of life through a better knowledge and understanding of "all of God's children."
